DAVIS HITS HARD AT CORRUPTION

PEOPLE MUST CONDEMN, NOT CONDONE ACTS

Democratic Nominee Determined to Hit Harder Than Ever on Subject of Corruption in Government—Replies to Daugherty's Letter.

(By The Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, Sept. 24. — Having served notice that there is to be no obscuring of the issue that the American people shall be aroused to condemn and not to condone the betrayal of official trust, John W. Davis prepared today to return to the stump, determined to hit out harder than ever on the subject of corruption in government.

The notice from the Democratic presidential nominee was contained in a letter written yesterday to Harry M. Daugherty in reply to one in which the former attorney general protested against what he characterized as the usually vague and all the more reprehensible references which Mr. Davis has made during the campaign to his official conduct.

Agreeing with Mr. Daugherty that there is "something more important in this year of grace than election to office or political basis" Mr. Davis said the basis for honesty could not be clouded "by your forced effort to represent the real contest of this campaign as one between the defenders of the constitution and those who seek to overthrow it under leaders fresh from a baptism of Bolshevism in lurid and sujering Russia.'

"If the constitution is to endure,' Mr. Davis wrote, "the first requisite is that men who hold office under it shall be honest and faithful to their trust. Its real enemies are not the reds and Bolshevists of whom you speak, whose shadows frighten you, but corrupt and impotent public officials and their associates.'

Asserting that instead of being "quite veiled' his allusions in the campaign to Mr. Daugherty had been "both direct and specific." Mr. Davis declared that he found no warrant whatever for withdrawing a single one of them.

Charging that the employment of Gaston B. Means as an agent of the department of justice "when his character already was notorious" was a "vicious maladministration" the Democratic nominee reiterated a previously expressed opinion that the appointment of Means was "of itself ample warrant for the summary removal of the attorney general by whom he was appointed."

In connection with the indictment of United States Senator Burton K. Wheeler of Montana, Mr. Davis assailed both the department of justice and the national committee in connection with sending their agents to Montana. He added that the "significant thing" was that no effort to find any indictment had been made until the senators had assumed a leading part "in the criticism of the administration and of yourself."

Again the Democratic standard bearer wrote that the failure of Mr. Daugherty to defend himself before the Senate investigating committee and the refusal of his brother to furnish information demanded of him in turn produced "an exceedingly painful impression" upon the country.

Leaving New York this afternoon Mr. Davis will renew his campaign in West Virginia, speaking there tomorrow noon at Charleston and tomorrow night at Huntington. On Friday he will speak at Bluefield and will make a number of brief talks at places along the route between those cities.

Leaving West Virginia Friday night he will return to New York but will stop over at Wilmington Saturday evening to speak there. Next Monday he will deliver addresses at Frederick and Baltimore, Maryland and then he plans to campaign in New England and New York state.

WEATHER FORECAST

(By The Associated Press.)
WASHINGTON, Sept. 24.—Virginia: Fair tonight and Thursday, not much change in temperature.
North Carolina: Generally fair tonight and Thursday.

TOWN TOPICS

Efforts are being made to route through Danville 18 large motor busses which early in October will leave New York for Florida carrying 350 tourists who have expressed preference to a journey by motor. The "palace cars" containing the large party will come south by way of Washington and Richmond and efforts are being made to route them through North Carolina over the road by way of Danville.

Councilman Edwin Meade, chairman of the public works committee, indicated this morning that he would bring before the committee at its next meeting the tourist camp situation with a view to remedying the present condition growing out of the absence of light and water, and other facilities. The council, it develops, has never been asked for an appropriation to string the wires and lay the pipes which would cost about $250 although requests were made by the chairman of the public works committee of the old council for estimates. The council authorized the use of the land, however, and promised free light and water to tourists. The drawing of attention to the matter probably will result in the early solution of the problem as the tourist traffic is becoming increasingly heavy as the southward movement has already begun.

The sales committee of the Danville Tobacco Association held a meeting yesterday for the purpose of arranging for the opening of the Danville auction market on the morning of Wednesday, October 1st. The committee authorized three daily sales for the opening week of the market, the quadruple system to go into effect on the second week of the market, these to continue through the season. The committee usually meets for the purpose of settling the question of sales shortly before the marken opens each season.

An order has been entered by Judge Withers in the corporation court allowing a new trial to Dr. R. W. Garnett, who was recently proceeded against by the real estate firm of Patton, Temple and Williamson for $360 commission alleged to be accruing for the sale of a dwelling on Virginia avenue. The new trial is granted on the condition that the defendant pay the costs of the first trial.

Dr. W. E. Woodbury of New York, hospital consultant arrived here early this morning to view the plans of the new Memorial Hospital. He is to meet the building committee of that organization at four o'clock this afternoon. He remained in conference this morning with J. Bryant Heard.

Dr. Allen F. Voschell of Charlottesville, is expected to arrive here early tomorrow to hold an orthopedic clinic at the city health office. The clinic hours will be from nine until one o'clock as Dr. Vosechell will have to return early in the afternoon.

An automobile belonging to George Henderson of Stokesland, was slightly damaged and another belonging to Col. W. T. Hughes car got away from its moorings when the brake sprang off and it glided down the incline into visiting man's machine.

Elopement of Young Couple Comes to Light

(By The Associated Press.)

BALTIMORE, Sept. 24.—Charles H. Consolvo, Jr., 18-year-old son of Chas. H. Consolvo, proprietor of the Hotel Belvedere, eloped with Miss Evelyn Lamb, of Elizabeth City, N. C., and was married September 1st, at Elliott City, Md., it was learned yesterday. Both Mr. Consolva, Sr., and Mr. Consolvo, Jr., affirm the marriage.

Shortly after the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Consolvo, Jr., separated. Mr. Consolvo has been living at the home of his father, Belvedere Manor, Reistertown, and Mrs. Consolvo has taken an apartment in North Charles street.

After the ceremony it was agreed by the party that the wedding should be kept a secret for a year, until Consolvo completed his studies at Georgetown preparatory school.

Mrs. Consolvo before her marriage was employed at various times in the beauty shops of Baltimore department stores. She has lived in Baltimore less than a year, it was said.

Declaring Miss Lamb "ran away with Charles Boy," Mr. Consolvo, Sr., said the youthful bridesroom was 18 years old and "only a baby."

Mr. Consolvo, Sr., said he will begin legal action to have the marriage annulled.

Challenging this action, Mrs. Consolvo, Jr., said she loved her husband and would contest the annulment proceedings.

SLAYER LOVERS ARE SEPARATED, MAN CHEERFUL

Minister and Woman Who Killed Mates in Different Jails

(By The Associated Press.)

MT. VERNON, Ills., Sept. 24. —The Rev. Lawrence Hight and Mrs. Elsie Sweetin who have confessed that their mutual infatuation prompted the poisoning of th eminister's wife and the woman's husband, today were held in separate jails. Mrs. Sweetin was transferred yesterday to the Salem, Ills., prison, because the local jail had no quarters for women.

Fear of violence caused the removal of the Rev. Hight to Nashville.

The minister confessed Monday, implicating himself in the Sweetin case and assumed all responsibility for his wife's death. Mrs. Sweetin made a statement yesterday that she administered poison to her husband at the instigation of the clergyman.

It was reported from Nashville that Rev. Hight was taking his fate with a smile and joked with the guards.

According to reports from Salem, Mrs. Sweetin was near collapse. The strain of an all night examination, which preceded her confession, coupled with worry over here 3 small children, had nearly spent her physical strength. She sobbed audibly at the mentioning of the three children and it was said that she had decided to place them in an orphanage.

Attendants at the jail said she had intimated she might supplement the confession. She also expressed a desire to engage on attorney they said. In the meantime States Attorney Thompson continued his preparation to present the case to the grand jury.

He denied a report that he would ask for life imprisonment for the couple.

KNEW DEAD GIRL

CARMI, Ills., Sept. 24.—The photograph of a girl found on the mantel of the home of Rev. Lawrence P. Hight, confessed poisoner of his wife at Ina and which the pastor said he did not remember, was identified by George Elliott, a farmer, near here as a likeness of his daughter Grace. She died 2 years ago, he said. The picture had been published in newspapers.

"Mr. Hight was a great friend of our family and Grace played the organ in his church," he said. "He visited us a number of times and was there during the illness of our daughter."

Mr. Elliott said that the picture was taken by his wife at the request of the Rev. Mr. Hight and that the pastor took the film to be developed but had never given the family any of the pictures.

"I can't understand why he should say that he didn't remember her name," he repeated.

HIGHT APPEARS CALM

(By The Associated Press.)

NASHVILLE, Ills., Sept. 24.—The Rev. Lawrence M. Hight, removed from Mount Vernon to the county jial here as a precautionary measure, gave instructions as to the disposition of the small amount of property he owns, in a letter written yesterday to his daughter, Mrs. Mary Eaton of Tamaroa, it was reported today. The instructions were not made public.

"I'm sorry for what I did but its too late for that now", Hight is quoted as having written. He wrote several other letters to relatives and friends.

The minister ate breakfast today with apparent enjoyment after a restful night. His attitude since arriving here has been calm and he appears to have resigned himself to whatever fate may be in store for him. He has made friends with three other prisoners charged with minor offenses.

Butler Showing Some Improvement

(By The Associated Press.)

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Sept. 24.—General Smedley D. Butler, director of public safety, who was reported not so well last night, was improved today and his physicians expect him to be able to return to his office by Monday. Absolute rest for 48 hours has been prescribed.

In the meantime Mayor W. Freeland Kendricks was waiting for the generally reported, it a request for his resignation.

The mayor, without revealing the contents of the letter, said today that if he could not have a man in his cabinet who would not co-operate with him, he would have another even if he had to make a change every day.

"I had nerve enough to bring General Butler to Philadelphia and I have nerve enough to fire him," he said.

Working Conditions In Mines Better

(By The Associated Press.)

RICHMOND, Va., Sept. 24.—Working conditions in the mines of Southwest Virginia are greatly improved over two months ago, it was declared here today by A. G. Lucas, State mine inspector. He said the greater demand for coal was chiefly responsible for the improvement shown.

"Many more of the men are working full time than was the case sixty days ago," said Mr. Lucas, "and the largest company in the State is working it smen night and day. Wages are rather low, but the price of coal is also low. A few miners are out of work, but no more than is usually the case."

The mine inspector told of interest being taken in firstaid drills in the mining section.

MAN HELD FOR POLICE ENQUIRY LOSES HOT RACE

Runs From Courthouse Before Being Questioned as to Bank Stamps

A young man, giving to the police the name of "Robertson," was being held early this afternoon for further questioning, after being found in possession of bank saving stamps valued at $27 and after leading policemen and firemen a hot chase up Patton street and down Ridge in a vain effort to avoid being questioned. "Robertson" was captured by Fireman E. B. Redd, who ran him down.

The suspected man broke away about 12:15 like a flash, and in a few second had the courthouse in an uproar. He was about to be taken to the courtroom to be interrogated when he suddenly ducked, ran out of the side door and sprinted down the alley between the courthouse and the fire station. Cook and Campbell, taken momentarily off their guard, raised a hue and cry and shouts of "catch him" sent a rush of peoples out of State offices to see what was the matter. John Malcum, fireman, and speedy on his feet, was among the first to fall in behind the streaking fugitive who headed up Patton street. Fireman E. B. Redd was engaged in work in the rear of the fire station but heard the cries and sped out of headquarters faster than any machine ever has. He took the middle of Patton street and he was given a clear road. The odds were against Redd but he is a nimble runner and he went up the hill, overtaking Malcolm, Cook, Campbell and Officer Towell. The fugitive was seen darting down Ridge street and observing that Redd was cutting down the distance, he took to back lots and wire fences, which he cleared with ease. Redd however, was always behind him and he finally ran him down in a honeysuckle vine behind the Hughes tobacco factory. A short fight took place there but the fireman held to the runner until Officer Towell arrived who subdued him with a blow. The unofficial autumnal handicap was all over in ten minutes, but it was some time before the pursuing policemen had recovered their breath, and customary poise.

Robertson, his wife who has an infant were arrested this morning at the Schoolfield car terminus and were taken to the courthouse for questioning. No charge had been preferred against them early this afternoon and Police Detectives Campbell and Cook who made the arrests said they had not finished questioning them. A few nights ago a small bank machine installed in the Schoolfield Y. M. C. A. lobby and containing Bank Saving stamps were stolen.

Officer Campbell said that a search of the man had revealed stamps to the total value of $27. These stamps are numbered and the local bank which is fosting the savings habit through the use of these machines is checking up on the stamps with a view to seeing if the number on the stamps correspond with those found on the suspect. He is quoted as saying that he found the stamps and is understood to deny responsibility for the Schoolfield affair.

COLONEL MACHIDA GOES TO JAPANESE CAPITAL ON AN IMPORTANT MISSION

TRAIN ENGINEER KILLED AND 10 HURT IN WRECK

Engine and Eight Coaches Leave Rails After Striking Stalled Auto on Tracks

(By The Associated Press.)

KALAMAZOO, Mich., Sept. 24.— One person was killed and ten others were injured this morning when westbound passenger train No. 1 on the Michigan Central, struck a stalled automobile at a grade crossing here and left the rails, piling up the locomotive and eight coaches.

Arthur E. Adams, engineer of Jackson, Michigan, was killed. The fireman, H. E. Wartin, of Jackson, was among the injured. Other injured included J. L. Jackson, Pullman porter, New York; C. W. Hoffman, New York; Frederick T. Miller, Rochester, N. Y.; F. A. Johnson, New London, Conn.

Running about an hour behind schedule, the train was traveling at between 50 and 60 miles an hour, it was estimated, when it struck the automobile which stood crosswise of the rails. The owner of the car had gone to get help in pushing the automobile off the right of way.

As Engineer Adams, who was scalded to death, applied the emergency brakes, the train of 11 steel coaches aparently buckled in the middle. One Pullman car shot to the right, knocking down telegraph poles and finally coming to a stop on a street, right side up. Then ext car started in the same course and was partly tipped over. The remainder of the coaches were strewn along the right of way. The last three coaches remained on the rails.

All main line tracks were torn up for 300 feet, the big steel rails being bent like hair pins. Less than half a dozen windows in the cars were broken.

Pres. Coolidge Addresses Ass'n. of Retail Druggists

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24.—Service and mutual consideration were set up today by President Coolidge as the guiding principles in relations between the government and business in a talk to delegates to the convention here of the national association of retail druggists.

The president again pledged himself to an administration guided so "that there may be reduction of taxation and harmony in our foreign relations, that there may be peace and prosperity."

Pursuance of the policy of service, Mr. Coolidge said, will bring "less and less interference by the agencies of government" in business. It should be the aim of the governmnet, he added, to make the contacts between business and the administration as few as possible "and to reduce the burdens and annoyances to the minimum which is consistent with conservation of the broadest public interest."

The president applauded the introduction into business transactions of the "moral element—common interest between merchant and customer, the sense of responsibility on both sides," and this he declared has been noticeable in your own business."

Nature of Visit Not Disclosed But Belief Prevails Officer Is There to Convey Request From Manchurian War Lord Asking Support From Japan.

(By The Associated Press.)

TOKIO, Sept. 24.— Colonel Takeo Machida, a retired Japanese army officer now employed by General Chang Tso-Lin in Manchuria as a military adviser, arrived in Tokio today from Mukden, admittedly on an important mission, the exact nature of which was undisclosed.

Colonel Machida told newspapermen that "it would be useless to deny that my visit is politically significant."

The vernacular pres today surmised that Colonel Machida carried a request from General Chang Tso-Lin asking positive aid from Japan in the Manchurian's conquest against the Peking government for control of the central government of China.

Colonel Michida intended to consult with leaders of the general staff of the Japanese army, where sympathy for General Chang and his purpose was generally believed to be strong.

The visit of Colonel Machida came after the government's policy in the Chinese internal situation was condemned today in resolutions passed by the leading opposition party in the diet. The government policy also was criticised at a meeting held under the auspices of the imperial reservists association and East Asiatic union.

The basis of the censure against the Japanese government was that it was following a policy toward China which was adopted by the British and American governments.

At the reservists meeting resolutions were passed which said that the American and British governments were supporting the Peking government while professing neutrality.

NEW ASSAULT EXPECTED

(By The Associated Press)

SHANGHAI, Sept. 24.—Guns on the fighting fronts near Shanghai remained silent tonight up to this hour, but a renewed Kiangsu assault upon the city's Chekiang defenders was expected momentarily.

Defense preparations were complete tonight. Reinforcements has been added to the battle lines from Liuho, on the Yangtse coast, to Tsingpu, south of the Shanghai-Nanking railway line. In addition, eight armored French automobiles equopped with machine guns were sent forward late this afternoon.

General Sun Yat-Sen, head of the South China government, who is reporting to march to the aid of Chekiang armies, are said to be recruiting in Shanghai. Unofficial confirmation that the recruiting is going on, however, is available.

A Mukden, Manchuria report to the Eastern News Agent, a Japanese organization, which is following the war situation in northern China closely, says that Chang Tso-Lin, head of the Manchurian army marching upon Peking, again has reiterated his attention of bombing the ancient Chinese capital, though emphasizing that the airman will not touch the foreign legations.

The same report quotes a Mukden headquarters communique as saying that following the capture Chaoyang, Chihli, by the Manchu troops, Chang's second army has moved westward to envelop Tsangyuan, midway between Chaoyang and Jehol (Chengtehfu).

BODY FOUND MAY BE THAT OF FORMER DANVILLE MAN NOW MISSING IN CANADA

W. R. Abbott, Farrar street, has returned from Leamington, Ontario, Canada, where he went recently for the purpose of trying to find some trace of his son, W. B. Abbott, a farmer of that northern clime, who has been strangely missing for several weeks. While there Mr. Abbott viewed the remains of a man's body found in the Detroit River shortly after the disappearance of his son, but was unable to identify it as that of his son. George Abbott, brother of the missing man, is at present in Canada continuing the search and investigating his disappearance. Fears are expressed that the missing man has been a victim of foul play.

W. R. Abbott left Danville about twelve years ago in the interest of the American Tobacco company, to go to Canada to develop tobacco growing there. At that time cultivation of the weed in that region was unknown. Mr. Abbott located on one of the farms of Art Brown, wealthy Canadian farmer, who owned about eight or ten large farms in Ontario. Mr. Abbott it is said, introduced cultivation of tobacco and since that time had made Canada his home, paying visits of about a month each year to his relatives here.

Recently a telegram from chief of police of Leavington, Ontario, brought word to the father of the Danville man in Canada of his disappearance. Within a short time, another telegram was received stating that the body of an unidentified man had been found floating in the Detroit river not far from the younger Abbott's home. The father left immediately. Mr. Abbott was further told by the chief of police that his son's car had been found abandoned on a roadside early one morning, not a great distance from where the body of the unidentified man was discovered. The body was found to have been badly cut and bruised, it is said, and indications pointed to a murder. However, Mr. Abbott could not dentify the body as that of his son because of the fact that it was so badly bruised and slashed and also had partly become decomposed in the water. However, he did not accept the theory that the body was his son's, and resumed the search but to no avail. After days of fruitless hunt, the father returned to Danville.

Feeling that the search should not be abandoned George Abbott, a brother, left for Canada and at present is continuing the search. The missing man's crops are said to have been in excellent condition when he disappeared and no reason for him to entertain a desire to leave or to end his life, can be given. His wife died nearly two years ago. He is said to have made a success of his venture, clearing over $10.000 in one year.

GERMANY IS PREPARING MEMORANDUM TO LEAGUE

(By The Associated Press)

BERLIN, Sept. 24.—The German government today began the task of drawing up a memorandum setting forth the conditions under which Germany will, in conformity with yesterday's cabinet decision, will apply for membership in the league of nations.

The memorandum will be sent to all of the governments which are members of the league council and will set forth the German desires and conditions.

The memorandum it is understood will ask definite enlightenment as to whether Germany will be offered a permanent seat in the council of the league and it will explicitly declare that Germany's entry into the league would in no way imply reaffirmation of her war guilt.

It is also understood that the memorandum will request information as to the obligations Germany would undertake through membership, specially regarding the transport of foreign troops through Germany for the assistance of a neighboring state which might be attacked by a third power.

On this point the German government contends that such transport would involve a brush of neutrality especially toward Russia, and that it might lead to hostilities.

The memorandum, which probably will be submitted to the government's concerned at an early date, will first be examined by the cabinet and by the governments of the federal states.

Chiropractic Is Mechanical

Question—"Will you please explain why your patients say Chiropractic is a MECHANICAL way to get the sick well?"

ANSWER—Chiropractic is an agent that ADJUSTS disarranged parts of man's spinal structure, so that nature can operate without interference in providing Functional Energy to man's working parts. Ninety-five per cent. of the diseases are due to pressure on nerves as they leave the spinal column. This pressure interferes with function in the organ at the end of the nerve, hence inflammation, pain and distress is corrected. The Chiropractor acts as a body mechanic when with his bare hands he adjusts the cause of this nerve pressure. He first locates the vertebra that has become slightly misplaced, then by hand palpation decides the exact degree and direction of misplacement. With this knowledge he is enabled to intelligently give the adjustment. The entire procedure is MECHANICAL. If you are not enjoying perfect health—

By MAURICE HENLE

NEW YORK, Sept. 24—The white man knows all his neighbors now.

In South American jungle beyond Theodore Roosevelt's "River of "Doubt" Americans have studied and photographed what is believed to the last people on earth to come under the gaze of the white scientists.

The Joseph McGoldrick expedition of Philadelphia traveled up the Amazon River, up th "River of oubt" now called the Roosevelt River, and into the jungles far beyond to find these people. It took 40 days from Manoas, the last white settlement to reach these tribes.

"White men probably have never been there before" said Alec Besso, guide and interpreter to the expedition which has just returned.

Women Like Slaves

The beliefs and customs of this primative group, which has never been in contact with white people are unique. Women are virtual slaves of the men.

"We met two different tribes" Besso says, "the Pirahas and Parintints. The latter are the more warlike, the most ferocious.

"They battle continually between themselves and their enmity is a bitter one.

"Their marriage views and social customs are curious. The usual custom is for a boy, as soon as he become 13 or 14 years of age to go out and prove his courage. He must hunt and fish. He must fight. Once he has proved he can take care of himself he is allowed to choose his wife.

Marry at 10

"The wife usualy is a girl of 10 or 11 years of age. They are married. There isn't any ceremony but the relations between man and wife is just as rigid as if there were a million ceremonies.

"Sometime it happens that the father of a little girl takes a liking to a boy. Even when the girl is too young to marry—say three or four—he gives her to the boy, who takes her into his father's house and cares for her. This continues until she becomes about 10 and then their marriage is considered as completed.

"Society, in one sense, is much alike in the United States and among the wild tribes of Brazil. An unworthy woman is shunned by other women just as she is shunned up here.

"Within the Parintintins are two clans. The Moutuns (wild turkey) and the Quandus (hawks). Every member of the 2,000 in the tribe belongs to one or th eother tribe. A Moutun woman must marry only a Quandu man. A Moutun man can only wed a Quandu woman. In this way they keep the blood of the tribe clean.

"That they have been successful is evident. They are wonderfully built creatures and fight like tigers."

Solved Problem

Incidentally this expedition to Brazil erased the question mark which has hung over the 'River of Doubt' ever since Theodore Roosevelt first named it that on his famous trip to South America.

Roosevelt after plunging through the jungle came out at the source of a river the identity of which he then was in doubt. Hence its name. At first it was thought to have been a branch of the Ar'puana River which flows into the Amazon. But the expedition established the fact that the "River of Doubt" now called River Roosevelt, is the main stream and the Arripuana is merely a branch of it.

A wreath was placed by members of the expedition at the marker made by the Roosevelt expedition. In canoes Besso and his party went up the stream. Fast, dangerous rapids were encountered, but otherwise the trip was uneventful until they were about 1,000 miles from Manaos where Pirahas and the Parintintins range.

"Nature provides for these savages wonderfully," Besso said. "The warriors and hunters make strings for their bows from wild cotton that grows everywhere in the jungle.

"There is always plenty of wild game to shoot and plenty fish to catch. Natives are skilled in the art of spearing fish. But the most interesting thing to know about this phase of their lives is that they eat considerable monkey meat.

"Clothing is not worn in these region. When we brought them dresses and other articles of clothing they were much delighted. They put it on for the purposes of some pictures, but no sooner had the cameras clicked than off came the clothing. They have no false modesty."

HUNT'S DAILY LETTER

By HARRY B. HUNT

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24—The semi-official story is that Secretary of the Navy Wilbur was called back from his Pacific Coast vacation to stop naval officers' complaints of the predicted ruin of the navy, due to cuts by the budget bureau in their estimate of the money needed to keep it going during the coming fiscal year.

On the "inside" it's whispered that President Coolidge blames Wilbur himself for not stopping this kind of talk sooner.

They say the president called him on the carpet on account of it. It must have been a strong call, too, for the secretary came a-running.

Wilbur didn't out and out criticise the budget cuts. But he did make some speeches, emphasizing the country's need for a strong navy. And he did it just at a moment when his subordinates were doing plenty of criticizing. The impression it gave was that he sympathized with them.

• • •

If there's one thing, more than any other, that the president counts on to help him at the coming election, it's his reputation as a money-saver.

The budget cuts coming just now, if given the right kind of publicity, ought to strengthen him immensely, his campaign managers think. But it isn't the right kind of publicity to have them held up to the people as ruinous to such things as the navy.

All the more irritating, this isn't being done by the president's political opponents. The talk comes out of a department which an appointee of his own is head of and is supposed to be able to manage.

He hasn't done it, so far as all this navy budget gossip is concerned, and there's good reason to believe reports that he let himself in for a severe reprimand.

• • •

Even though the president is angry enough maybe, to let his secretary out of the cabinet, naturally he won't do it at present.

It wouldn't take well in campaign time.

In fact, it never looks well. It's all right for a cabinet member to resign on account of ill health, because he has personal interests which demand his attention, to accept another appointment, as to the Supreme Court, or to run for the Senate for instance. But a cabinet dismissal, or what amounts to one, is no favorable advertisement for any administration.

• • •

But a president who is re-elected may reorganize his cabinet without in the least embarrassing himself politically. And that politicians are betting, is what Coolidge will do, and do drastically, if he gets in again.

• • •

The president, as all know took over the official family Harding left to him. He couldn't very well make changes in it and carry out his announced intention of continuing his predecessor's policies, which it seemed to be good politics for him to profess to stick to.

However, it is no secret that Coolidge has ideas quite different from Harding's. That was proved conclusively by the thoroughness with which the Republicans' old managing group was cleaned out, directly after Coolidge's nomination at Cleveland, in favor of the present new managing group.

That was the psychological moment for changing party managements.

Next March will be the psychological moment for changing cabinets—is Coolidge is re-elected.

Attorney General Stone and Secretary of the Navy Wilbur were Coolidge selections. The former—assuming a continuation of the Coolidge regime—may stay on. If any of the other cabinet members do, it will surprise Washington.

Permanent roads are a good investment —not an expense

Road Building Far Behind the Automobile

Millions now recognize the automobile as a necessity. It is no longer a luxury for the few. Sixty per cent of its use is for business.

Because of this the modern paved highway has become an economic necessity.

Yet although the mileage of Concrete Roads and Streets has been steadily increasing, our highway system today lags far behind the automobile. The great majority of our highways are as out of date as the single-track, narrow gauge railway of fifty years ago.

Such a condition not only seriously handicaps the progress of the automobile as a comfortable, profitable means of transportation, but also holds back commercial, industrial and agricultural advancement in practically every section of the country. It is costing taxpayers millions of dollars annually.

Highway building should be continued and enlarged upon.

Your highway authorities are ready to carry on their share of this great public work. But they must have your support. Tell them you are ready to invest in more and wider Concrete Highways now.

All is not oil that oozes

So many people think that any oil will lubricate any bearing. As a matter of fact the choice of the best oil for any given piece of machinery is a difficult technical problem.

Speed, pressure, temperature, clearances and the kind of metal are some of the things that have to be taken into account in selecting the correct lubricant. Fortunately there is a wide range of oils to choose from. Some oils are so penetrating that they will work their way through the tightest joints. Others are so heavy as to seriously retard the motion of moving parts.

Between these extremes there is a correct lubricant for every part of every car. "Standard" Polarine Motor Oils and Greases, for instance, come in a complete range of consistencies suitable for every part of your car. The secret of a perfect-running engine is to use the correct "Standard" lubricant for each part and to renew it as frequently as needed.

Next time you are at a "Standard" dealer's garage or service station study the "Standard" Polarine Chart of Recommendations. It tells exactly which consistency to use in each place, Summer and Winter. Take time to be exact—it pays.

ARMY OR NO NAVY IS QUESTION IN DENMARK

By MILTON BRONNER

COPENHAGEN, Sept. 24.—"Let's do away with our army and navy, save money, give the big world an emphatic peace gesture, and rely upon the League of Nations to see that we come to no harm."

That, in a nutshell, is the startling suggestion that the government of Denmark will make to the Priliament this fall. And all the Danes are het up about it.

The old conservative classes are opposed to it, firstly, because it is the proposal of a Socialist government, and secondly, because with the disbanding of the army would come the end of a thousand years of honorable martial history.

The working classes are, in the main, in favor of it. The government represents them.

The Social Democrats, like the Socialist Labor party of England, are a minority government. They have not a majority in either house of Parliament, but are supported by the Radical Liberals. Their argument is that expenditure upon an army and navy for Denmark is sheer waste of money.

Denmark in point both of area and population is one of the smallest nations in the world. Her total population is 3,267,831, of which over 700,000 is concentrated in the capital. Even upon a war footing the Danish army would only be about 100,000 and government leaders say this would be inadequate to provide real resistance to any of the bigger nations

Fifty-six millions of kroner, or nearly 13 per cent, of the revenues of the nation, are spent upon the army and navy. The government proposes to do away with these. Instead it wants to have a state police force for both the land and water to preserve order.

This would cost only ten million kroner. It is thought many of the present army and navy officers would gladly enroll in the new police force.

The passage of the measure through the lower house of Parliament is highly probable. If that takes place, the government will go to the people and ask for a plebiscite on the subject. If successful, reinforced by this, they will then go before the upper house, which at the present time is considered hostile.

So this fall, when we are discussing "Coolidge, Davis or La Follette?" The Danes will be on street corners and country roads discussing "Army or no army."

On form, the Danes ought to be a very happy people, but they are not. In spite of the fact that 76 per cent of the Danish area is devoted to intensive agriculture and that about 92 per cent., of the farmers own their own farms; in spite of the heavy export trade in butter, eggs and bacon; in spite of the present small number of unemployed, there are many things that trouble the Danes.

Their currency has depreciated in the world market.

Many of the banks have been in trouble owing to after-war depression and the investment, on the part of some, in German marks.

The closing of America's doors to many of her Nordic citizens.

As with her bigger Scandinavian neighbors, this is a sore subject, particularly on the part of the shipping companies which used to derive a large revenue from the immigration of Danes to the United States.

It is, perhaps, not generally known that nearly 190,000 Danes live in the United States

The states with the biggest population are: California, 18,721; Iowa, 18,020; Illinois, 17,098; Minnesota, 16,904; Wisconsin, 15,420; New York, 14222; Nebraska, 12,338.

There is slim chance that any such figures will ever again be attained, unless the immigration laws are revised. At the present time only 2,789 Danes per annum are allowed to emigrate to the United States.

Now the normal increase of the population here in the home country is about 40,000. There is very little room left for further agricultural development. There are no mines and no timber fields.

The excess population, therefore, tends to go to the cities. In times of prosperity this gives a supply of cheap labor. In hard times this makes bread lines. The state, the cities and the trade unions combined have spent millions of kroner in tiding over the unemployed.

Skilled workers and expert gardeners and farmers look longingly toward America, but the doors are bolted. They conclude there isn't much in being Nordwics after all, so far as America is concerned.

FUTURE OF CIVILIZATION DEPENDS ON MEMBERS OF K. K. K. DECLARES EVANS

(By The Associated Press)

KANSAS CITY, Sept 24.—The Ku Klux Klan was held up as "the last refuge of American patriotism worthy of the name", by Imperial Wizard Hiram Wesley Evans, in addressing the second imperial Klonvokation of the order here today.

"Klansmen and klanswomen are verily 'the salt of the earth,' upon whom depends the future of civilization," the imperial wizard declared.

Asserting that the future of America and the white race hangs in the balance," Mr. Evans said "that the blood which produces human leadership must be protected from inferior blood and from the competition which saps the vitality of leadership, because it makes the struggle for existence such a burden that people stagger under it."

"You," he told his klan auditors, "are of this superior blood. You are more—more are leaders in the only movement in the world at present which exists solely to establish a civilization that will insure these things."

History has proved and is proving daily," the speaker declared, "that only Nordic and Anglo Saxon people have reached a high level of intelligence."

Turning to immigration, the imperial wizard said:

"The undesirable hordes from other lands are driving to our sides the millions who for one reason or another have been hesitating. Every attack upon the klan makes more clear cut the issue of Americanism against alienism. Americans are sometimes slow, but they are plodding nad discerning—and they are honest. Hence, they will eventually discover the klan—and recognize it as the last refue of American patriotism worthy of the name.

"Unified at last, with a purpose that is definite and holy with a militant organization, with the zeal and courage and loyalty which made the Nordic and Anglo-Saxon peoples the greatest on earth, we are ready to stand as the French stood at Verdun and shout to the alien hordes 'thou shalt not pass.'

"Millions of Americans in arduous quest of leadership toward better government, adequate law enforcement, the elevation of society and a more perfect national patriotism. The klan alone supplies that."

Warning klansmen not to underestimate the strength of the opposition "to the forward march of the Klan" Mr. Evans said:

"When petty persecutions failed, our enemies resorted to direct terrorism. They started a series of riots which has shed blood and disgraced our country for sometime to come. Most of the attacks were planned and directed by the same forces which were behind the early form of prosecution. Some, it must be acknowledged, have been the product of racial instincts, hostile to Americans and everything American."

"The imperial wizard declared that the outside world will eventually know that klansmen do not hate Roman Catholics, Jews, negroes or aliens."

The klan's fight he said, is not with the people but with systems and instincts and principles which run counter to Anglo-Saxon instinct, American and Protestant Christianity. The klan does not exist to command people in their religious beliefs. Our watch cry is "back to the constitution."

"The constitution of the United States tolerates freeds but it favors none. Hence, the only complaints the klan makes of the Roman Catholic church is that she cease meddling in American politics and that she come down from her self-erected pedestal of special privilege Baptist and Methodists and other Protestant churches.

"The klan believes in the upbuilding of the American nation—founded, as history emphatically declares, on the supremacy of the white race, the genius of the Nordic and Anglo-Saxon peoples and the free private interpretation of God's word.

"The Lord has guided us and shaped the events in which we rejoice" said Imperial Wizard Evans. "He has held us under His protection. The fact that we have as divine guidance and protection should and must increase our faith in the klan, in its growth in grace and power, in its mission, in its final complete victory."

D. AND W. DENIED RIGHT TO CLOSE THREE STATIONS

Corporation Commission Authorizes Discontinuance of Burnt Chimneys

The State Corporation Commission yesterday declined an applicat on made several months ago for authority to close three of its stations between Danville and Stuart. The company is authorized, however, to close the station at Burnt Chimneys but the three other requests are disallowed. The points in question are Aiken Summitt, Preston and Stella. Lack of freight receipts at these stations and a desire to economize to the greatest degree in the operation of the road led to the filing of applications which drew contests from people living in the vicinity of the stations and served by them The decision of the Commission is given as follows:

"The physical facts surrounding the stations, conditions of the roads, population, schedules and other facts and circumstances do not justify the discontinuance of the stations at Aiken Summitt, Preston and Stella," the order declares, "but do justify the discontinuance of the station agency known as Burnt Chimneys."

Major Theo Parker superintendent of the railway when asked concerning what steps the railway company might be expected to take said that he had received no notification of the Commission's action and in the lack of such notification withheld any comment or statement.

MIDDLE BELT SEASON OPENS IN N. CAROLINA

HENDERSON, Sept 24 — Tobacco markets in the middle belt opened today for the 1924 season Three auction and one co-operative warehouse were opened here. The season was also ushered in at Durham, Henderson, Oxford, Warrenton, Louisburg, Raleigh, Aberdeen, Carthage Sanford and Youngsville. Rainy weather prevailed over much of the belt and it thought this would cu down the opening sales.

Approximately 150,000 pounds of tobacco were sold on the auction floors of the Henderson warehouses today. The averages were estimated at 18 to 20 cents, which warehousemen said were good for the quality of tobacco offered.

OXFORD, Sept. 24.—A large crowd was here today for the opening of the tobacco market. All companies have buyers on the market and large sales at the five auction warehouses. Farmers are pleased with prices averaging around 22 cents.

RALEIGH, Sept 24. —Around 35,000 pounds of tobacco were sold at the opening of Raleigh's two auction tobacco warehouses here today bringing around 22 cents, according to warehousemen. Rain last night and this morning cut down the amount of tobacco brought in by farmers.

SANFORD, Sept. 24. —The Planters' warehouse and P. R. Casey and Son, the two auction tobacco warehouses, opened here today with a large amount of tobacco despite the very disagreeable weather, and the poor condition of the roads. Tobacco sold on the floor as high as 40 cents, the average had not been determined late today.

ABERDEEN, Sept. 24.—The tobacco season opened here today and offerings sold well. A big barbecue, for which 22 pigs had been killed, was served to the large number of farmers and others in attendance. A street dance to the accompaniment of band music was held tonight.

Good Morning Judge!

Harvey Hayes, E. G. McCubbins and W. J. Wade, recently arrested on charges, of violating the Layman liquor law, were acquitted this morning after a hearing before Magistrate C. K. Carter in the police court. No evidence to convict them with. A small quantity of whisky found at the local tank headquarters was found and the cases were gdropped.

Only one other case was before Magistrate Carter. Elijah Kidd and Lizzie Howard, colored, were placed under bonds of $50 each for their good behavior for six months, as result of charges alleging disorderly conduct.

CENTRAL PARK'S CAVE

NEW YORK, Sept. 24.—Police are investigating reports that a cave in Central Park is a "port of missing girls." They pooh-hooed the story of Jean Koski, 17-year-old runaway of Cleveland, that she had slept with about a score of other girls in a cave in the park, but now they are guarding the entrance to the cavern. The cave is hardly known to any except the most curious of the park explorers.

EDGE DEFEATS KEAN FOR U. S. SENATE IN N. J.

(By The Associated Press.)

NEWARK, N. J., Sept. 24. —Belated returns from yesterday's primary came in today, the majority of Senator Walter E. Edge over National Committeeman Hamilton F. Kean for nomination as republican senatorial candidate increased to 54,148 with all but 232 scattering districts of the 2,559 reported. The vote was Edge 211,490; Kean 159,072.

Mr. Kean telegraphed Senator Edge a pledge of "hearty support."

"Congratulations on your victory," the message said. "I pledge you my hearty support."

U. S. Senator Walter Edge decisively defeated Hamilton F. Kean, national committeeman for the republican nomination for U. S senator, in yesterday's primaries, leading his opponent by 47,162 votes when returns from 2,173 out of 2,559 election districts were tabulated. The vote was: Edge 193,791. Kean 146,629.

Senator Edge's victory was generally considered today as a victory for the so-called liberal elements. Mr. Kean was supported by the anti-saloon league. The fight was a bitter one with the prohibition question as perhaps the foremost issue.

Edge's supporters had openly declared that Kean had the general following of the Ku Klux Klan. Mr. Kean, however, had never admitted that this was true.

Senator Edge also was opposed by the national non-partisan campaign committee of the American federation of labor Mr. Kean had frequently asserted in the campaign that Mr. Edge had failed to stand by President Coolidge and that a change of party control was necessary.

Senator Edge, however, asserted that he had supported President Coolidge and criticised his opponents for the sort of campaign which he asserted Kean's adherents waged.

Senator Edge's victory will mark the beginning of another hard fight to be decided in the election of November, it was admitted today. The Rev. Dr. James K Shields, former superintendent of the state anti-saloon league will be an independent candidate for senator in addition to Mayor F. W. Donnelly of Trenton, democrat, and George L. Record, Jersey City, independent progress and adherent of Senator LaFollette Dr. Shields had announced that he would withdraw from the contest if Mr. Kean were nominated.

The first woman to enter Congress from New ersey may have appeared Mrs. Mary L Norton, vice president, of the state democratic committee who was unopposed for the nomination in a district which is normall democratic.

ohn J. Eagan, of the eleventh district, the only democratic congressman to face opposition for renomination, apparently was defeated by Oscar L. Auf Der Heide who ran on a light wine and beer platform.

The bullets, according to witnesses, were fired by a group of men who gathered on the sidewalk and fired a dozen or more shots at the raided dwelling.

Physicians said Woodward's wound was not necessarily serious. Mrs. Booth was shot in the left eye. She will lose the sight of this member, physicians declared.

DR. SAWYER DIES SUDDENLY IN MARION, OHIO

Physician to Late President Harding Claimed Under Similar Circumstances

(By The Associated Press.)

MARION, O., Sept. 24.—Funeral services for Brigadier General Charles E. Sawyer, who was personal physician to the late President Harding and who died suddenly here yesterday from heart disease, will be held from the Sawyer home here at 2:30 o'clock Friday afternoon.

(By The Associated Press.)

MARION, Sept. 24.—Dr. Charles F. Sawyer, personal physician to the late President Harding, and for a time personal physician to President Coolidge, will be buried Friday in the Marion cemetery not far from where the body of President Harding lies entombed, it was announced today. The hour has not been set.

(By The Associated Press.)

MARION O., Sept. 24.—Funeral arrangements for Dr. Charles Elmer Sawyer, personal physician to the late President Harding, who died suddenly of heart disease yesterday were being completed by the family today While date of burial had not been definitely decided, the family announced interment would be in the Marion cemetery, where the body of the late president was placed.

It was thought that funeral arrangements would be made for Friday and that Seretary of State Charles E Hughes and many of the physicians' Washington friends would attend. Telegrams of sympathy continued to pour into the family home from all sections of the United States. President and Mrs Coolidge and Secretary and Mrs. Hughes sent message last night.

Secretary Hughes is to be here for the formal opening of the republican state campaign Saturday and it was believed likely that he, with other notables, would make an effort to arrive a day earlier if the funeral was arranged for that time.

Dr. Sawyer died peacefully while sleeping Returning to his home at White Oak farm yesterday afternoon he complained of illness and his son, Dr. Carl W. Sawyer, took him into his office while he went for medicine. He was dead when his son returned.

Mrs. Florence Kling Harding, widow of the late president, has been making her home with the Sawyers since her husband's death and was present when death came. Under circumstances similar to the death of Mr. Harding, Mrs Harding watched by the bedside of her friend and physician.

Slightly more than a year had elapsed since Dr. Sawyer stood beside the late president's bedside in a San Francisco hotel and watched while he passed on. He had been with Mr. Harding since shortly after his nomination for the presidency and was one of his closest friends.

Born near Wyandot, Ohio, sixty-four years ago Dr Sawyer obtained a practical education in the village school at Nevada. He began the study of medicine at the age of seventeen and was graduated from the Cleveland Homeopathi chospital college at Cleveland in 1881. He began his practice at Larue in April of the same year.

His widow and a son survive.

RIOTOUS PARTY RESULTS IN 10 FALSE FIRE ALARMS

NEW YORK, Sept. 24.—The early morning calm of West Harlem was shattered yesterday by the gongs, sirens and clatter of fire engines answered ten false alarms and by a burglar hunt that ended with a woman being punched by a volunteer manhunter, the whole ruckus being, according to the police, the eddies left by the swath of two men on a party.

What the sleepy-eyed firemen who acted as the butts of the joke are resentfully considering is the fact that one of the alleged fire-box pullers is said to be a fireman.

Joseph Reilly has run with Engine No. 154 in Staten Island for seven years. He wears insignia indicating that in 1923 he had won the highest award for heroic work in the performance of his duty. George H. Mundy of Lt Salle street is a boilermaker. Noise and action are said to be dear to the hearts of each man, and yesterday morning the police credit them with a maximum of both.

At 4:06 a. m. the fire alarm box at Morningside Drive and 120th street was sounded. False alarm. The engines sped back to make up for their crews' interrupted sleep. When peace was restored and every fireman abed the second alarm sent them slidding down poles By the time the tenth alarm came in at 6 o'clock the firemen were sitting in their places ready to go, but not happy about it.

Meantime police reserves had been called to guard all fire-boxes in the district, and Battalion Chief Charles Griffiths was speeding from box to box with fire in his eye.

The windup of the jaunt was staged in the apartments at No. 530 Riverside Drive. Barnard Booth, Superintendent, later told Magistrate Oberwager in West Side Court that he was searching for a burglar when Reilly and Mundy entered and volunteered help.

No burglar was found, but Mrs. Sophia Booth declares that Mundy ook advantage of the others' absence to accost her and bang her head up against the wall. When she complained to her husband he ran out and brought back Patrolman Jeremiah Rooney who took the entire party to his station in the coupe Reilly and Munday had been driving about it.

Magistrate Oberwager held Reilly in $1,000 bail and Mundy in $2,500 for examination Wednesday on affidavits charging them with suspicion of burglary and attempted assault on Mrs. Booth. The license number on the men's car was the same as that given by persons reporting having seen two men in a coupe pull the fire-boxes, but no formal complaint was made against them on this score, his intention of examining witnesses further them, "to iron this whole matter out."

Crop Conditions In Old Dominion

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24.—Crop and weather conditions in Virginia and North Carolina during the week ending yesterday were summarized today by the Department of Agriculture as follows:

Virginia: Cool and dry until latter part of week when rains were general over most of state, improving pastures and meadows and conditioning soil for plowing. Unfavorable for corn and cotton. Tobacco mostly cut; quality fair; early corn mostly in shock. Apple harvest underway; fruit very good quality.

North Carolina: Rain relieved drought in west, benefiting pastures and meadows and softening soil for plowing but too much cloudy, rainy weather in east and central. Cotton ten days to two weeks late; weekly progress mostly poor to deterioration; too much rain and insufficient sunshine damaged some open bolls and delayed picking considerable boll rot. Weevil increasing, damaging top crop. Late corn, poor.

I Am Clean

One Reason for My Beauty
By Edna Wallace Hopper

This is to the millions of women who wish to know how I have kept my youth and beauty after 35 years as a stage star. And now at a grandmothers age I manage to look like a girl.

Edna Wallace Hopper
Photo 1923

One thing is this: I never use soap and water on my face. Soap removes just the surface dirt, and that has nothing to do with the skin.

Lucie Lantelme, the famous Parisian beauty told me how she kept her skin so absolutely clean. Then I went to her experts and secured the same method.

Since then the method has come into world-wide use, but only through beauty experts. The results were so marvelous that all of them charged high prices for the product. Some charged $3, some $5 for the formula so only the few know how much it can do.

Now I am placing this formula at every woman's call. I have named it my Facial Youth. It contains no animal, no vegetable fats, so the skin cannot absorb it. It simply penetrates the pores to the depths, then departs. All the grime, all the dead skin and clogging matter comes out with it.

Wash your face in the best way you know, then apply my Facial Youth. You will be amazed at the extra grime and clogging which comes out with it.

This is the first step in fine complexions—an absolutely clean skin. This method is the only way to get it. Once you know what it means you will never go without it.

I have placed this formula with all druggists, all toilet counters. The price is 75c despite the fact that others charge ten times as much.

You need my Facial Youth. It is impossible, they tell me, to look your best without it. It is the only facial cleanser which really cleans.

Write me for my Beauty Book and I'll send with it something else to please you. Edna Wallace Hopper, 536 Lake Shore Drive, Chicago.—adv.

The Tangle

An Intimate Story of Innermost Emotion Revealed in Private Letters

LETTER FROM LESLIE PRESCOTT TO RUTH BURKE, CONTINUED

My whole life, Ruth, is bound up in John and my adopted son. Perhaps if I were of a lighter type of woman, I would make John happier. I remember his telling me once that there were women in this world who have loved men devotedly and yet made them unhappy every day in the week. I don't want to be one of that kind of women.

I know it would break my heart to have John go out of my life, yet I cannot bear this constant quarreling we have seemed to have lately.

It may seem to you, my dear, strange that a woman in my condition should morbidly think of leaving her husband. Of course, with me, neither myself nor my children would be dependent upon John for support.

The other day at a luncheon a number of newly wedded women were discussing another one who was just getting a divorce.

Said one of them: "I think I would have tried to stick it out a little longer had I been Lucille. A man usually comes back repentant and contrite."

"But it takes so much out of you!" I said impulsively. "There are other things beside 'a tear too much or a kiss too long' that change life so 'it is never the same again.'"

"I think,' said another woman about the table, "that it is because we are less patient than our mothers and grandmothers were that the proportion of divorces to marriages has reached such an alarming figure."

"No," answered another woman, "I believe there were just as many unhappy women and just as many impatient women belonging to the mid-Victorian era as there are today. But divorce is now more prevalent because there are more women who are economically independent."

"What a horrid idea," spoke up a bride."

"Not at all," answered the speaker. "I believe many of our mothers and grandmothers stuck it out because they just didn't know what else to do. Now almost all women know that somewhere, if they will honestly work, they will find a husband's support is not necessary. Consequently they do not submit as often to anything that is not a fifty-fifty proposition."

"But the children," spoke up another.

"Yes, what of the children?" interrupted an older woman who had the reputation of being a very unhappy wife. "I wish some one would decide for me whether it would be better for children to grow up in a home with constantly bickering parents, a home filled with unhappiness or unrest, or whether they would be better off if the parents separated and they went with either one or the other of them.

"I sometimes think," she added almost to herself, "that 'home' is another one of those words that we worship blindly without stopping to think of what it might be composed."

Ruth, this conversation was extremely illuminating to me. I found out that other women were not only thinking but discussing the very question that seemed in my case unique.

Strange Story of Murder Comes From North Wilderness

(By The Associated Press.)

VANCOUVER, B. C., Sept. 24.—A weird tale of witchcraft, torture and murder came over the wires from far-away Telegraph Creek today.

It was a message fro ma royal Canadian-mounted policeman announcing that after trekking for a year through northern British Columbia, he was returning to civilization with an aged Indian squaw and four accomplishes who killed a young brave because his "sorcery" brought the wrath of the evil spirits upon his tribesmen.

A year ago, said the message, hunting suddenly became very poor among the Indians of the northern wilderness. A long, cold winter followed, and starvation, disease and death cut into the ranks of the tribesmen.

The superstition of their religion taught the Indians that some one of their number, some sorcerer and maker of "bad medicine" whose witcheries invoked the wrath of the evil spirits, had brought calamity upon the tribe. Suspicion fell upon a youth, Atol.

Led by the aged squaw the tribesmen invaded his shack at night, found him mumbling strange words over his tiny wood-fire and laid hands on him. They tied him to a sapling, head downward, and let him hang for days, slowly dying.

At length he aged woman grew impatient that Atol died so slowly, according to the policeman's telegraphed account, and so she cut his throat with a hunting knife.

Over the trails, from camp to camp, the story filtered through the mounted police, and one of its members set forth to bring the slayers to justice.

DOMESTIC DIFFICULTY RESULTS IN ACTION

(Special to The Bee)

PELHAM, N. C., Sept. 24.—O. F. Lewis is held under $200 bond for the Caswell county, N. C., grand jury action, following a domestic affair which occurred Saturday morning and in which his wife claims to have been injured. Magistrate T. N. Pierce heard the case, there being no evidence to support a charge made by one of the man's daughters that he had tried to shoot his wife. Lewis, it appears, threatened to kill himself, his wife seeking to take from his hands a shot gun. During the struggle the gun was discharged, and Lewis then left the scene, his wife at first thinking that she had been wounded, this giving rise to the report that she had been struck by the load.

A Price Upon Her Head

GLORIA FAURE

By BURTON DAVIS

HOUSTON, Tex., Sept. 24— Gloria Faure, whose grandfather was a president of France, had two alternatives.

She could leave Mexico or face a firing squad.

And quite naturaly, she left Mexico.

The pretty, black-haired, dark-eyed 20-year-old senorita was classed as a dangerous radical. There was a price upon her head.

She had gone through the De la Huerta revolution against the Obregon government as secretar yto Jorge Prieto Laurens, one of De la Huerta's chief lieutenants.

It was a dangerous post for a girl. But Gloria never balked.

She had cast her lot with the insurrectionists while visiting friends in Vera Cruz.

With Laurens, she went to Tuxpam, to Puerto Mexico, to Frontera, to Laguna del Carmen, to Campeche, to Progresso.

When the rebel leaders at last were forced to flee for their lives, she went with them. With a little party of refugees, she arrived in New Orleans last April.

In June she decided to return to her home in Mexico City.

But there she found she was a marked woman. Government agents shadowed her. Friends gave her to understand she had better leave Mexico.

She came to Houston. Here she met her old chief, Laurens—not so old in years, for he is not yet $30, but worn with the cares of a lost cause.

Meanwhile, though, wires were being cut in the Mexican capital. The government gave her brother permission for her return.

Now she's going back under that amnesty proclamation.

"I've had enough excitement," she says. "I just want to go home for awhile, and then—

"Oh, I may get married and come back to the United States."

HIGH SCHOOL GIRLS FIND NO PLACE FOR BASKETBALL

High school girls interested in basket ball activity this year and already preparing for the inter-class games prior to the selection of the team, which shall represent the school during the basketball season are faced with a difficult problem. There is no place where they can play their games games, the remodelling and refurbishing of the municipal hall having eliminated the only available basketball court. Miss Gladys Hurd who has been appointed manager of the team, said last night, that the situation is serious and that while tentative arrangements are being made to play this year the lack of any room to play is an obstacle which will probably be hard to overcome. The Y. M. C. A. court while available for games is described as unsuitable for girls and is handicapped by the gallery and lack of free space over the lines which cuts down the possibility of fast play.

Miss Hurd stated that members of the team were hopeful that in view of the emergency situation that the trustees of the Ridge street Tabernacle would waive the iron clad rules which encompag the usage of that building and permit the marking of a court on the level space just in front of the platform. The deed under which the building was conveyed to trustees for the city is specific, however, and some fail to see how the structure can be used for sports when the deed insists it shall be utilized only for religious or educational purposes. The deed has been a stumbling block for many enterprises.

The only other alternative appears to be the utilization of one of the disused tobacco warehouse floors and an appeal in this direction will be made as a last resort. This would necessitated the expense of providing more brilliant illumination than is found in the warehouses at present and there would be the added discomfort of lack of dressing rooms necessitating the players emerging overheated from a game into the cold night air with possibly serious results.

The early games of the girl's basket ball team will be between the Junior and Senior sophomore and freshmen. These four teams will play 3 games each and the material for the team to represent the Danville High school will be picked from the team making the best showing. In the meantime there is hesitancy in making up a schedule without of town schools in view of the present inability to secure a basketball court

ADVOCATES 15-YEAR MARRIAGES

By HORTENSE SAUNDERS

MARY YOUNG

NEW YORK, Sept. 24. —To end divorce abolish the life sentence for marriage culprits, advises Mary Young.

"The life sentence no longer fits the offense," she complains. "Fifteen years should be the limit to the validity of the marriage certificate, after which it may be extended indefinitely until death do us part, or it may be dissolved decently without red tape."

This serious minded actress, who plays the part of the very modern wife in "Dancing Mothers," has very definite ideas about marriage. She herself was married at 14, and believes that the greatest happiness granted to women is possible through marriage.

"But it may also bring the greatest unhappiness," she goes on, "and all of us cannot be poured in the same mold. Most of us admit there is something radically wrong with marriage or divorce would not be so prevlent, but few of us hve the courage to come out and suggest changes.

"The happy marriage—and happy marriages are in the majority—need not suffer because the contract must be occasionally renewed. The unhappy marriage is the one to profit by the change."

As it is now, divorce is the only remedy, she points out, and that is a poor way, since the reputation of the husband or wife or both may be damaged in the transaction and the home and its traditions smashed so that the children suffer.

"With a time-limit marriage," she argues, "the contract to love, honor and obey automatically expires at a given time, and those who make mistakes in selection are given an opportunity to find happines elsewhere. The arrangements for the care and upbringing of the children may be made with honesty and mutual confidence."

We are a liberty-loving race, she believes, and we need fewer restrictions in marriage instead of more. No institution can take the place of marriage instead of more. No institution can take the place of marriage, but greater happiness will be possible only with greater freedom.

"It may be that the home of the future will not be a common home. Many husbands and wives today have separate homes and find a happiness in two that is denied them in one.

"Freedom in marriage should not be confused with license. It merely means that both the husband and the wife have an equal opportunity for self-development and a career, if the woman desires, as well as the old obligations of one providing a home and one keeping it.

"The economic freedom of women has revolutionized the home, and has made marriage a different problem in adjustment than it used to be. Our increasing divorce rate is an indication that the institution of marriage needs repairs and modern improvements."

'BROADWAY AFTER DARK' NIGHT DRAMA OF N. Y.

Film At Broadway Today and Tomorrow Scenes With Glamerous

"Broadway After Dark," the attraction at the Broadway Theatre today and Thursday, is said to be a midnight drama of New York, replete with all the glamorous escapades which stir the imagination and which cause hundreds of thousands annually to exchange their home towns for the glitter and gayety of Broadway.

The wickedness, the sham, the fascinations and disillusionments of this iron-souled town are incorporated in this screen version of the Owen Davis melodrama, a Warner Brothers Classic of the Screen. The direction is by Monta Bell, who was associated with Charles Chaplin in the making of the latter's important picture.

A cast of stellar proportions interprets the Broadway types. They consist of such well known names as Adolphe Menjou, Norma Shearer, Anna Q. Nilsson, Edward Burns, Carmel Myers, Vera Lewis, Willard Louis, Mervyn LeRoy, Jimmy Quinn and many others equally brilliant.

SENATOR EDGE HAS BIG LEAD OVER KEAN

NEWARK, N. J., Sept. 23.—United States Senator Walter E. Edge had a lead of 11,566 over National Committeeman Hamilton F. Kean in today's primary, for the Republican senatorial nomination, when returns had been received from more than one-fourth of the State. Scattered election districts in 20 of the 21 counties contributed to this result.

Later returns from little more than half the State gave United States Senator Walter E. Edge a lead of 23,756 over National Committeeman Hamilton F. Kean in today's primary election for Republican nomination for the United States senate.

Despite Senator Edge's margin, Mr. Kean declared he still was hopeful, asserting that returns from rural districts would change the vote.

4,000 ATTEND SALE AT FRANKS HOME

CHICAGO, Sept. 23.—Approximately four thousand persons, chiefly curiosity seekers, with few buyers, yesterday thronged the recently abandoned home of Jacob Franks, father of the boy murdered by Leopold and Loeb. The beautiful lawn was trampled to shreds. The family, moving away from the mournful surroundings will live in a hotel, miles distant from their former home and it had been announced the furnishings would be sold at auction.

Jacob Franks was the only member of the family present. The mother of Bobby is quite ill and the surviving son and Josephine, the daughter, kept out of the crowd.

The personal belongings had been removed, including the entire contents of Bobby's den. A beautiful stained glass window, carrying the portraits of Bobby, his sister and brother, was withheld from the sale. A radio set, built by Bobby, had been included in the articles to be sold, but before the auctioneer reached it, Mrs. Franks called her husband on the telephone and asked him to withdraw it.

RESIGNED HEAD OF BANK IS SILENT

LYNCHBURG, Va., Sept. 23.—When called over the long distance telephone tonight, C. M. Trinkle, who last week resigned as president of the Farmers Bank of Southwest Virginia at Wytheville, said he had no statement to make nad refused to discuss the matter. R. L. Pierce who succeeded Mr. Trinkle, said there were no further developments in the situation and referred to his statement made earlier in the day.

In New York

NEW YORK, Sept. 24.—The Cheese Club meets every day but not a bite of mouse trap bait is eaten by its members.

They live for laughs. No movement or enterprise is to ridiculous for them to offer a supporting hand.

It was the Chese Club that organized the famous overall parade, the Fifth avenue march of 40 workers that attracted 2,000,000 spectators.

Last spring the club produced a show seriously billed as "The world's worst show"—and it was. It lasted one night.

This winter "Thre world's best show" will be produced for a night. PPractically every star on Broadway will appear.

The club composed of authors, cartoonists and press agents with some connection with the theatre, has headquarters in The Travern. Guests are invited every day except Monday, when the club reserves the right to a closed session to laugh at the guests of the week previous.

Benny Leonard, the pugilist, actor and author, was the fun maker yesterday. Among Benny's strongest fortes, however, is his business ability. He is one of the shrewdest men in the ring, on the typewriter or behind the footlights.

The Cheese Club has a membership of only 100 with a waiting list that includes, officials say, Eddie Cantor, Will Rogers and others.

Harry Hirshfield, the cartoonist, who was born in Iowa, is the club president and chief fun maker. Bernard Sobel, former Purdue University professor and now a Broadway press representative is the English referee.

Sixty-five dollars an hour or $500 a day is not considered excessive attorney's fees according to barristers pleading for their funds here—a case in which the organization which hired them, objected to the compensation. Counsel fees were $750,000.

Broadway may soon be cluttered with busses. The plan is seriously suggested to do away with street car lines on the famous street. In the rush hours, Fifth Avenue looks like the avenue of buses. But they make better time in the congested area than electric cars.

RIVER STREET IMPROVEMENT.

The city has begun repairing River street which of recent months has badly deteriorated and which has been a source of complaint. This is an improved soil road. It is now being plowed up and wil be regraded and rolled before it is thrown open to the public again.

THE MARTINSVILLE ROAD

The necessity of steps being taken to preserve the Martinsville road from further deterioration is becoming increasingly evident to those who have occasion to travel it regularly and who report not only a subsidence of parts of the new concrete road as well as the washing of the topsoil of the sand-clay road expecially on stretches approaching the Henry county seat. The longitudinal services which made their appearance some months ago in the concrete surface so recently accepted give every indication of widening and with the approach of the rainy season and we will be confronted with the spectacle of another good road earning a bad name simply through failure to winter water seeping through these cracks will only quicken the damage while freezing weather will do material very material harm. We assume that the state highway commission is cognizant of the deterioration apparent to the most casual observer and that the cracks will be filled with the bituminous preparation to seal them before the advent of bad weather. The resoiling of the dirt surface on other parts of the road has already become necessary for the surface in many places has become badly corrugated and holes are appearing which will increase in size as the rainy season approaches.

The Martinsville road at one time was considered one of the best dirt highways in this section but the interest which was once shown in it has apparently waned and unless steps are taken to meet the situation maintain it. That has been too frequent in Virginia. The constant care of good roads once built is even more important than the securing of new ones. It is particularly distressing to see the concrete surface just beyond Danville showing signs of breaking and the only link which binds Danville to Martinsville going down with no promises of remedial action on the part of the state authorities who are looked to to maintain the highways.

IT DOES MAKE A DIFFERENCE

You frequently hear a man say in lemonade tones: "Aw, it doesn't make much difference who's elected. The people are the goat, no matter who wins."

This indifferent attitude toward politics is as contagious as smallpox. And it is spreading. More than any other factor, it is responsible for the increasing tendency of citizens to fail to cast their ballots—nearly half staying away from the polls in the 1920 presidential election.

Shout it from the house-tops: It does make a difference who is elected. American municipalities long since learned that it does make a difference whether a community's chief of police is a strict law enforcer or in league with the underworld.

They long since learned that plunging a nation into war and sending the voters out to be shot at, depends principally on the makeup of Congress.

They long since learned that it does make a difference whether their boss in business is kindly and fair or heartless and slave-driving.

And it does make a difference, who is elected to any political job—from president down to dog catcher.

The cynical growl that it "Doesn't make any difference who's elected." is as preposterously false as it is obviously false.

In electing the president and other political office holders this fall you are to a large extent determining what will happen to the pocketbook's contents in the next four years. The choice of president and other national employes will unquestionably have an important effect in shaping the cost of living and the conditions under which the rising generation will live.

Any man with common sense will see this. And he will not fail to vote.

Before voting, he will listen to both sides—rather, to all sides—in an attempt to arrive at the truth before selecting his favorite. Political speeches are not as interesting as Thrill Murders and baseball and movies, but they occasionally have horse sense and, if backed by popular support, can lead to solutions of many of our gravest problems.

Increasingly, as the American people have taken politics less seriously, economic problems have become more serious. Accept the politician's Bunk with a grin, in one ear and out the other. But watch for Common Sense, then back it—for your own and your family's prosperity, welfare and happiness.

Own A Library

Next desirable to owning a home is to own a library in it.

I care not how small or how slowly that library is built, as it grows you will grow both in character and happiness.

I often visit the great New York library and I like to walk through other wonderful libraries, but I love my own the best. Because somehow each book in my own library holds a personal relation for me that is like that which I hold in the love of a friend.

Take Joseph Conrad, for instance, and Lafeadio Hearn. A friend called my attention to one of these writers and I stumbled on to the other. I now fortunately own the complete works of great Adventure. But I read their works over and over and they are as alive and real in life to me as though they still breathed.

That is the great thing about a book. It records the finest, the deepest and the sincerest moments of its author. So that you may have these ideas and suggestions of the personality that produced them with you as long as you live.

The men or women who love the fine literature can never be wholly bad and I am sure that they are almost wholly good.

It is an inspiring thing to see a boy absorbed in a good book. You know that his mind is going to grow with his body.

It's a big world but you can get into some of its uttermost corners through its fine books. The other evening I picked up a book of travels by Ed Howe and lived with him his absorbing hours in the West Indies. Sometime I hope to go too; and I shall enjoy my trip the more for having read Howe's account of all he saw there.

And what an understanding of character and life you get from the reading of books by master minds that worked to put into the choicest words the product of their thinking and observation.

Own a Library—no matter how small. As the years advance you will owe to that library the richest moments of your ripened life.

THE REFEREE

By Albert Apple

BEER

George Washington's great-great-grandfather, Lawrence, long ago piled up a beer bill at Oxford University in England and neglected to pay it. So runs tradition.

American lawyers, at their convention over there this summer, took up a collection and paid the od account, which amounted to less than $4. That, however, bought enough beer to float a battleship back yonder, which may be why they are referred to as "the good old days."

GERMS

The pious need not be shocked because George Washington's great-great-grandfather drank beer. Wine and beer were light drinks for those days of brandy, rum, whisky and gin.

Nearly every one drank as a substitute for the polluted water which was the rule long ago. Water was unsafe to drink. Science has made it safe. Many a man with a faded red nose and high blood pressure will comment that progress has its price.

SONG

Only one song in a thousand makes a hit and brings big profits to the publishers and writer, says E. C. Mills. He's chairman of the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers.

Many will be surprised that so few songs go over big. And yet the situation is no different than in other lines of work. For every one who succeeds, a thousand or more fail outright or at best never reach more than very mild success.

Success is the exception, failure the rule. More profitable to study failures and try to figure why they failed, than to analyze the careers of the rich and famous. What not to do is quite as important as what to do.

EXIT

Fifteen years ago it was not unusual for a popular song to sell three million copies. Now it's a rare composition of sheet music that reaches a third that much.

E. C. Mills blames this on the decline of piano and violin playing. It's so much easier to stick a 50-cent record on the phonograph or tune in the radio than to practice for years and probably get nowhere. Man used to have to create his own music. Now it's cut-and-dried and served to him, like nearly everything else.

CUT-AND-DRIED

The village band is a vanishing institution, along with the individual amateur musician. Radio and phonograph have canned music.

It's an age of cans—canned food, canned music.....and even canned thought. The increasing tendency toward specialization gets the average person in such a rut that he is too tired after work to do much thinking for himself. The professional "thinker" is among our generation. His thoughts, alas! are usually futile. Specialization destroys the individual mentality.

A doctor is a man who means well.

Indications are that jazz music was going so fast it will be some years before the stuff can be stopped.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST.

Jim Johnson

Jim Johnson wasn't much to see,
No swell aristocrat was he,
No stylish clothes he wore,
He never owned a pair of spats,
He had no use for high silk hats
Or butlers at his door:
A suit some one might give to him
Was plenty good enough for Jim.

Jim Johnson was no learned man
His grammar never smoothly ran,
His "did" was always "done,"
You'd say, "I saw," he'd say "I seen"
I think you gather what I mean,
He was no polished son.
He fished and hunted all year through
And made his living by it, too.

That power divine which shapes our ends
In curious ways provides us friends,
And so it was with Jim;
Each summer to his village came,
Great men of wealth and wordly fame
To hunt and fish with him.
And they would sit the whole night through
To hear him tell them what he knew.

Jim knew the stars, the birds, the trees,
The habits of the honey bees,
And all of nature's lore;
He knew a thousand secrets hid
From men who always say: "I did."
And here is something more:
These polished sons of life rejoiced
To hear the stories that he voiced.

They loved him. Underneath the rough
Exterior and his manner gruff
They saw the soul of him.
Nature had taught him all he knew,
And spite of flaws which critics view,
Had made a man of Jim.
The man who knows what you don't know
Always has something to bestow.

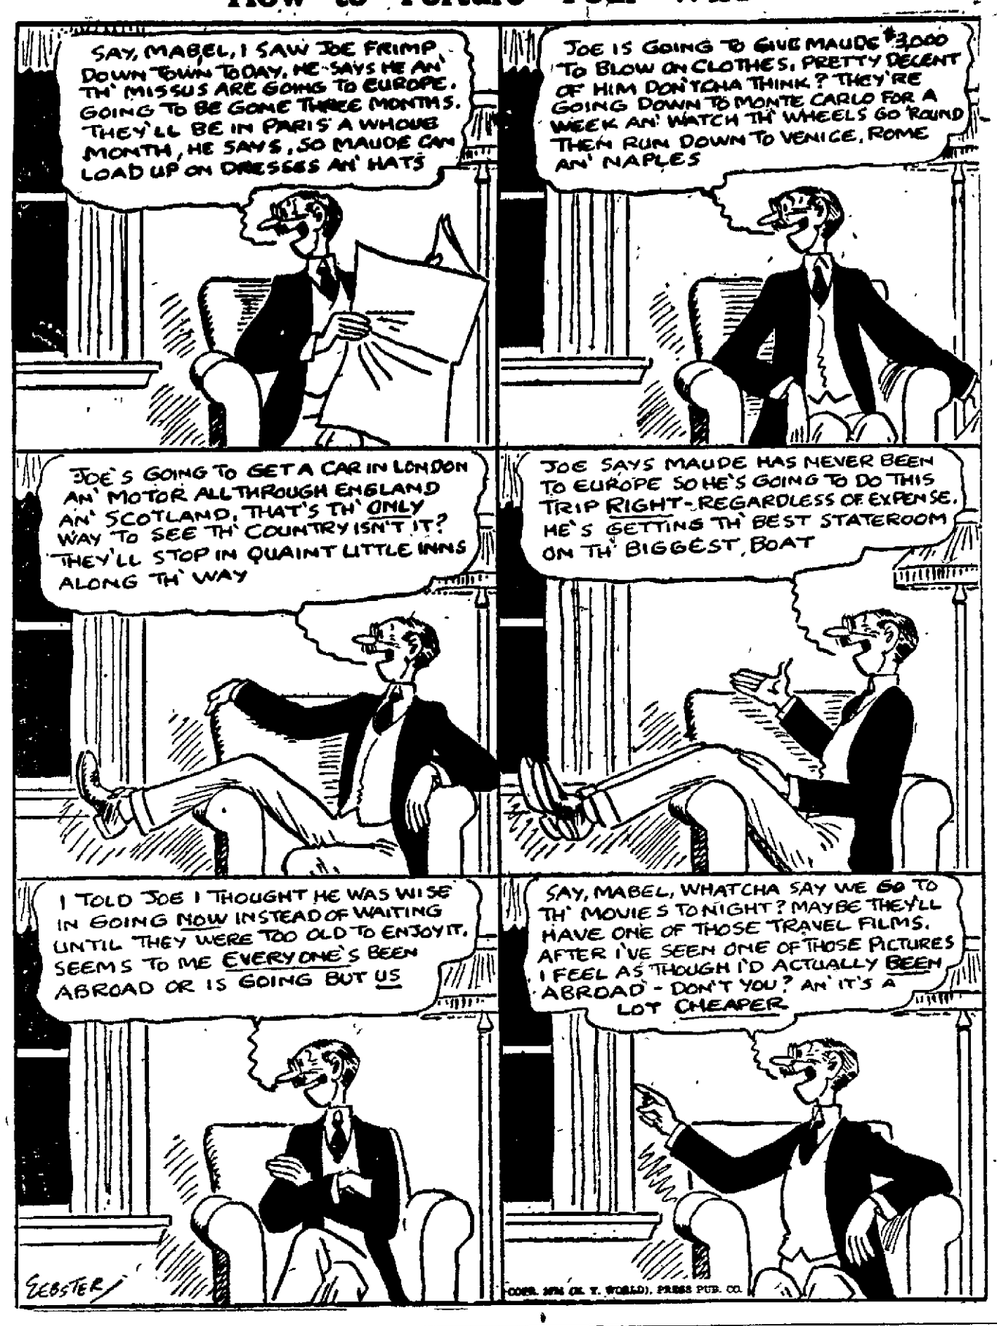
How to Torture Your Wife



With ROOSEVELT IN AFRICA

by W. Robert Foran

© 1924 NEA Service Inc.

SYNOPSIS

Robert Foran, newspaper correspondent, accompanies the Theodore Roosevelt expedition into Africa in 1909. They arrive at Mombasa, the "gateway of British East Africa," to their first camp on the game-crowded Kapiti Plains, 288 miles from the coast. With Colonel Roosevelt are his son, Kermit, and three scientific members of his staff—Major Edgar A. Mearns, Edmund Heller and J. Allen Loring.

After a wonderfully successful shooting trip in the Sotik country, the expedition camps for more hunting at a farm called Saigai-Sai. Proceeding next to Naivasha, the party meets with more good sport. They are at Nairobi during race week. The Nairobi Club gives a ball and the stewards of the East African Club give a dinner in honor of Roosevelt.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

The race meeting was memorable for the fact that Colonel Roosevelt was present, and also because it was the first occasion for the Annual Produce Stakes to be run. This was for horses and mares born and bred in British East Africa. Kermit rode in this and another race with considerable judgment and skill, but without the good fortune to win.

The race track was a couple of miles outside of Nairobi and on the edge of the Athi Plains. Wild game of all kinds could be seen with the naked eye just beyond the track. On more than one occasion, lions had been hunted and killed on the track; and more than once in the history of the Turf Club lions had been so unsporting as to interrupt training gallops over the course.

The whole of East Africa, with the commencement of the new week, turned its thoughts to the public banquet which was to be given to Colonel Roosevelt in the Railway Institute at Nairobi on the evening of August 3. Everyone, officials and settlers alike, was feverishly awaiting his speech in the hope that it would bring forth a favorable expression of opinion on the country and its future prospects.

Everybody felt that the country's making or breaking rested on the words of Colonel Roosevelt, for they knew that his publicly expressed opinions would carry very great weight in England.

Chapter XIII
Nairobi's Banquet to Roosevelt

Two hundred officials, settlers, missionaries and business men assembled in the Railway Institute of Nairobi to do honor to Theodore Roosevelt. If there had been more space available, the gathering would have been larger. But it was a representative body of the people who were giving their time and labor to the development of British East Africa.

The women of the community, and those who had been unable to secure seats at the tables, were seated round the edge of the hall so that they could all hear Colonel Roosevelt's speech.

It was plain to see that everyone present was in a state of suppressed excitement, for the importance of the distinguished American's words to the country's future had been realized by all.

The hall and tables had been tastefully decorated by the ladies, and behind the chairman's seat the national flags of Great Britain and the United States formed a framework for the coat of arms of the Roosevelt family.

The acting governor, Sir Frederick Jackson, presided at the banquet, with Colonel Roosevelt on his right and Kermit on his left. Also at the governor's table were the Roman Catholic bishop of East Africa, Lord Delamere, and a number of the most prominent residents of the country.

The toasts of the king and the president of the United States were accompanied by the playing of the respective national anthems by the native band of the Third Battalion of the King's African Rifles.

After Sir Frederick Jackson had expressed the great pleasure of all East Africans in entertaining Colonel Roosevelt and in assisting him to make his visit both pleasant and successful, the town clerk of Nairobi, Captain E. L. Sanderson, rose and read the address of welcome, which had been printed on silk and enclosed in a very handsome elephant tusk mounted in silver and suspended on a silver chain.

After Sir Frederick Jackson had presented the address and the tusk to Colonel Roosevelt, he called upon Major C. J. Ross to present him with a souvenir of East Africa on behalf of the American residents of East Africa.

In a pithy speech, this hardened old veteran of many arduous campaigns and adventures presented Colonel Roosevelt with a magnificent rhinoceros-foot tobacco-box, mounted in silver and with silver relicas of a rhinoceros and buffalo head upon the lid.

Sir Frederick Jackson then proposed the health of Theodore Roosevelt. The toast was received with a remarkable outburst of wild enthusiasm, everyone springing to his feet and singing "For he's a jolly good fellow," with true Highland honors.

KERMIT AND HIS AFRICAN SERVANT, JUMA.

Colonel Roosevelt was obviously deeply touched and moved by the genuine warmth of his reception. This ovation was renewed when he rose to his feet to reply to the address of welcome, his long speech being listened to with rapt attention and punctuated throughout with extraordinary outbursts of cheering and applause.

Chapter XIV
Roosevelt Speaks at Nairobi

"Believe me, I am very deeply touched with this fresh display of kindness and good-will which I have received ever since I have set my foot in British East Africa. You, Sir Frederick, have been especially good. By far the major portion of the pleasure and success of my trip is due to your effort and I am glad of the chance of thanking you all—the officials, settlers and missionaires alike—for the way in which I have been treated."

Theodore Roosevelt's measured words fell clearly on the ears of the representative gathering of East Africans who had assembled to do him honor. Every face was turned toward the speaker, and their attention was wholly centered on his utterances.

"From the very first time I stood on the Kapiti Plains," continued Roosevelt, "it struck me as familiar to the conditions as I knew them out west some twenty years ago; and I believe from my heart that the same wealth that has come to the west, during the last quarter of a century, will come here to British East Africa—so alike is the condition of fundamentals.

"I think few people realize, outside of Africa, that there is here in Africa, under the equator, a real white man's country. Before I came out here people had told me that white children would not do well out here; but I have visited the homes of settler after settler, especially those from South Africa—both British and Dutch—where I saw large families of children of every age, who had never been out of the country and who were as sturdy as anyone could wish to see them. At Kijabe, among the missionaries, I saw children and young men and women, who had grown up in Africa, not having let it for a decade, and who were as healthy as possible. Of course there are plenty of places which are unhealthy; and if you follow the career of a hunter you must now and again get into these places and must expect, in consequence, now and then to meet with sickness.

"But there are very large tracts fit for a fine population of healthy and prosperous settlers—fit and, as this is one of the few regions of the world still left which is fit for new white settlement, it would be a real calamity to neglect it.

"Here where we are now, the greatest need is to help white settlement. Of course, the settlers must be of the right type. There has been a remarkable spread of the English-speaking race over the waste spaces of the earth.

"Credit is due to the people who stay at home. But the major portion of the credit is due to those who go out and conquer these wild continents. The frontier is no place for weak and shiftless people, and the submerged tenth offers exactly the type of persons who cannot prosper in a new country. But the same kind of man who did well when he went to the far west, to the Rocky Mountains and the Great Plains, thirty years ago, can do well here.

"From sugar and cotton to wheat and wool, apies and strawberries, you grow almost everything. And I believe that one of the feats which, in the future, will be held especially to the credit of the white race during the last decade is the building of the Uganda Railway.

"I am ever anexpansionist. When we found that we had to build the Panama Canal, we did not consider whether or not it would pay. It had to be done, and it was up to us to do it. In the building of the Uganda Railway you have thereby created a permanent highway between fertile mid-Africa, with its genuinely tropical characteristics, and the ocean.

"I have not the slightest sympathy with those who expect an immediate money return on this railway. Speaking as an outsider, it is difficult to speak with patience of those who speak querulously and wonder if it is a good thing.

"Just as in our west the great railroads were built, not because the country already needed them, but to build up a country which should in the future need them, so here with you the railroad had been built to develop and build up the country; and ample time should be given before it can be expected to pay.

"I believe this country has a great agricultural and industrial future; and meanwhile, it occupies an unique position as the most attractive playground in the world—at least to people who possess the states of those here present.

DRAKES BRANCH, September 24.—(Grapevine Wireless.)—This is the story told by a Methodist parson to his Presbyterian brother, as the D. & W. train switched at Leaksville junction yesterday:

A policeman gave evidenced against a prisoner who was brought before the judge on a charge of attempted suicide.

"The prisoner, your honor, purchased a bottle of petrol, some poison, a rope, revolver and ammunition. He approached a tree overhanging the cliffs facing the sea, fastening one end of the rope to a branch. He placed the other loop round his neck; he saturated his clothes with the petrol and set himself alight with a match, at the same time took the poison, jumping from the cliff. As he jumped he fired the revolver, pointing it to himself, but missed and the shot cut the rope, he fell into the sea, and the water put out the flames. On coming to the surface the salt water he had taken caused the prisoner to vomit back the poison, and if the prisoner, your honor, had not been able to swim he would have certainly been drowned."

WASHINGTON TAKES HARD FOUGHT GAME AND HOLDS AMERICAN LEAGUE LEAD

(By The Associated Press)

CHICAGO, Sept. 13.—Washington kept pace with the Yankees today, defeating the White Sox 7 to 6, while their pennant rivals won from Cleveland, retaining their lead of two games. The game was hard fought. After Chicago had jumped into the lead. Charley Robertson suddenly weakened and Washington took the lead in the third by bunching hits with errors by Davis and Falk. They continued the attack in the fouth and drove Robertson off the mound. Ted Blankenship took up the burden and Washington was able to glean only one hit off him.

The cold weather began to tell on Mogridge and he was replaced by Marberry. The big right-hander was unsteady when he took up the pitching for the Senators in the seventh and the White Sox scored two runs and threatened to go ahead. Twice after that the locals got men within scoring distance but sensational fielding puledl Marberry out of the holes.

The batting of Goslin was one of the outstanding features in the Senators' attack.

YANKEES EASILY WIN FROM CLEVELAND INDIANS

CLEVELAND, Sept. 23.—Cleveland could not hit Bob Shawkey when hits were needed and New York won the second game of the series 8 to 2 today. A wild throw by Ruth in the eighth inning paved the way for the Indians' runs, the ball going into the Yankees' dug out, allowing Stephenson to score and placing J. Sewell on third, when he scored on an infield out. The Yankees scored their first run in the second inning, on an infield hit by Meusel and a double by Ward. A double by Pipp, an infield out and a single by Scott resulted in another run in the fourth.

Two bases on balls, an error by Fewster, a single by Meusel and a sacrifice fly by Ward netted the Yankees three runs in the fifth. Scott's second single, a triple by Bengough, and a single by Shawkey gave the champions two runs in the eighth, their final run in the ninth resulting from a base on balls to Meusel followed by Ward's triple.

WEST POINT TEAM TO PLAY BY NIGHT

CLASSIC PLAYS OF THE GRIDIRON

By DR. J. W. WILCE
(Ohio State University Coach)

Eighty thousand people had wedged into the mammoth concrete horseshoe. From "cork" to "cork" it pulsed with humanity. Bands played. Flags and pennants went up. Machine guns barked in salute. A football appeared. The teams lined up. A whistle. The kick-off. And the Ohio Stadium was dedicated. There you have a staccato picture of one never-to-be-forgotten October afternoon in 1922.

Now let's turn to another October afternoon in 1916. The scene is Illinois Field, a morass of mud. Two minutes of a bitter struggle remain. Illinois clings to a six-point lead, the result of two accurate kicks. But Ohio, the as-yet unsung babe of the Western Conference, was threatening. A long forward pass from "Chic" Harley to End MacDonald had carried Ohio from its 20-yard line to midfield and a succession of short tosses, in which the martyred aviator, Fred Norton, figured prominently, made it fourth down with three yards to go on Illinois' 13-yard line. Then came a great play.

Again it was Harley back, with the option of passing or running. Illinois' right end charged in a few steps, then dropped back. In that instant Harley decided what to do. He faked to pass, then ran to the left. Two teammates going to the left as possible pass receivers blocked the defensive end and right halfback. Harley outran the full-back, straight-armed the defensive right end, who had been only partly blocked, straight-armed the safety man and dove for a touchdown in the extreme left corner of the field. The winning point hinged on the success of the free kick, from a difficult angle to the left of the goal posts. Harley was not through thinking. He called time, asked for a clean right shoe to replace the mud-heavy one he ha don, then made good the goal—and game.

That play, though no one knew it at the time, was the genesis of the movement for the Ohio Stadium, a movement that gained impetus and finally crystallized into an active campaign and the great moment pictured in the first lines of this story as Harley repeated with variations his exploits of his first Western Conference game, Ohio continued to win games and public enthusiasm ran high.

So you see the far-reaching effects a thrilling play, particularly several seasons of them, may have.

Washington players have given Marberry the nickname of "Firpo." If he were a football player instead of a pitcher, somebody doubtless would call him the "wild full of the campus."

FOOTBALL QUESTIONS

If You Have Some Question to Ask About Football Write—

LAWRENCE PERRY,

Special Football Correspondent of The Bee, 814 World Building, New York

(Copyright, 1924 by The Bee)

QUESTION—A kicker punts from close to his line of scrimmage. One or more team mates are behind him when kick is made. Is there any circumstance by which these onside men may recover the ball

ANSWER—No. A ball may be recovered by a player of the kicker's side only after a free kick or kick-off.

QUESTION—A forward pass is thrown by Team A. An eligible man of Team A and a defending player catch the ball simultaneously. Does the ball then belong to the player who can wrest it from the other?

ANSWER—No. The ball belongs to the side that put it in play—in the case in question, therefore, to Team A.

QUESTION—A back running with the ball is about to be tackled. He tosses it back of him to a tackle or other lineman. Is that lineman eligible to run with it?

ANSWER—Any player may at any time receive a ball from a member of his own team who is in front of him. The only stipulation against passing is the forward throwing of the ball.

The fact that Washington is fighting for first place is no stranger than the fact that Clarke Griffith paid $50,000 for Earl McNeely.

A Loeb-Leopold Lesson.

There is no need to introduce the Loeb-Leopold-Franks homicide. Every one knows about that. The trial of Loeb and Leopold has been completed. The alienists when on the witness stand made use of many terms and referred to many conditions, most of which were new and unknown to many people. I heard most of the testimony of the physicians, and I read practically all of it. I will try to interpret some of the outstanding subjects discussed.

When the case was called the defendants admitted their guilt as charged in the indictment. Therefore, the question of guilt was not before the court. They also admitted their sanity. Therefore, the question of sanity was not before the court, since the court accepted the pleading and did not itself raise that question. The law of Illinois provides for a range of punishment for first degree murder from a minimum of 14 years in the penitentiary to a maximum of hanging.

The trial consisted in an effort on the part of the State to convince the court tha hanging was the proper punishment and in an effort on the part of the defense that penitentiary for life was what the crime called for. The State proved that the crime was one that usually brings a verdict of hanging. The defense admitted that. At this point the real trial began.

The defense tried to prove that the boys were immature and had mental diseases or conditions which were short of legal insanity. The State combatted all of this except that part which related to the age in years of the boys. The claimed that the boys were clear mentally. That nothing in their behavior, conduct, personality, emotions, or intellects served to mitigate the crime.

When this became the battle line the people who heard or read the testimony had new subjects brought to their attention. At least they were new to those who heard and read them in the testimony. I do not know what other good will come from this trial, but I am sure that out of it all there will grow a great popular interest in behavior, deportment, conduct, and personality, and that may prove enough of a gain to offset all else.

Some years ago a group of teachers and mental hygienists tried to get up a score card for the behavior of school children. They had in mind some of the behavior problems which children, fairly normal, present to teachers and parents and which greatly perplex both groups. This group even went so far as to try to diagnose the meaning of certain behavior peculiarities. They wanted to write a chapter on social treatment but they decided that in that part of the pond the water was too deep. Nobody paid very much attention to that score card.

If somebody will devise a behavior score card now it will receive attention.

Poison In Cosmetics.

F. L. writes: Is it true that sufficient poison can be absorbed through the pores of the skin from the use of face powders and cosmetics to injure the health?

REPLY.

Yes, if the poisonous kinds are used.

Spots In the Skin.

C. M. M. A. writes: No doubt you know that in southern Florida, as in all subtropic lands (I have lived in Hawaii and Porto Rico) the people are subject to queer discolorations of the skin—ugly brown spots on face and back of hands. Another is a very peculiar whitening of patches of skin on backs of hands, on face, or on throat. This is like the other in that it is absolutely painless, but it is disfiguring and humiliating.

White patches always suggest leprosy to those who see it.

Will you not discuss these very common skin troubles?

I do not know o fa physician here who seems to know what it is or to have heard of it. One friend of mine has ever spreading patches on side of neck. Her doctor could only advise painting with iodine, and said it was called "pinto" and was not alarming.

Personally, I believe it could be burned off, as I have noticed that in spots where I have accidentally burned my hands or arms in taking hot things out of ovens, or in other ways, that the new skin is entirely free from pigment. I am planning to have many spots burned off unless you say it is better not to do so.

REPLY

Both conditions are present in all parts of America, though they are more frequently found in the tropics. The name of the condition is vitiligo.

Overpigmented spots are frequently found associated with depigmented spots.

Do not try to burn the spots off. You will make matters worse.

Paint the white spots with walnut juice.

To the pigmented ones repeatedly apply a saturated solution of hyposulphate of soda.

CRIPPLED GIANTS BEAT PITTSBURGH THRU GREAT WORK OF ROOKIE PLAYERS

NEW YORK, Sept. 23.—Playing like champions in spite of a crippled lineup, the New York Giants decisively vanquished Pittsburgh today, five to 1, in the first game of their all-important three game series. A crowd of 30,000 saw the McGraw men strengthen their hold on the top and at the same time deal a stunning blow to Pirate pennant hopes.

The triumph put the Giants two and one half games ahead of Pittsburgh which now cannot go into the lead even if victorious in the remaining games of this series tomorrow and Thursday. As Brooklyn was beaten by Chicago, McGraw increased his margin over the second-place Robins to a full game.

Behind the brilliant twirling of Hugh McQuillan the Giants played with the sort of dash and snap that has carried them to three pennants in a row and has brightened their prospects of making it four straight. They fought the Pirates with their two brightest infield-stars, Groh and Frisch, on the sidelines through injuries, but instead of cracking, the patched up outfit proved its mettle by outplaying the Pirates at nearly every turn.

It was a rookie, in fact, who turned the tide in McGraw's favor. Jimmy O'Connell, former Pacific coast star, smashed out a home run into the upper tier of the righ field stands in the fourth inning, scoring Lindstrom, rookie third sacker, who had singled ahead of him. The Giants added three more in the seventh, when Hank Gowdy singled with the bases full, but that brace of runs proved the winning margin.

O'Connell was purchased for $75,000 from San Francisco three years ago but if today's victory turns out to be McGraw's pennant margin the youngster will have more than redeemed his price.

The Pirates outhit the Giants, seven to five, but while McQuillan was air-tight New York made all its blows count. Lee Meadows wirled seven innings for the Pirates and allowed only four hits, but two of these figured in each of the Giants' scoring rallies, together with a bit of wildness on the part of the bespectacled righthander. Songer, a rookie, twirled the eighth. He was found for a double by Ross Young and walked Kelly but managed to escape without being scored on.

Outside of the eighth when they totalled their only run, the Pirates made their other threatening gesture in the seventh and sensational defense work checked it. In this frame Cuyler, who struck out on his other three appearances, clouted a double to left field wall for the opening shot. Wright poped out but Traynor sent a screeching liner over second which Jackson dove for and stopped. It went for a hit but prevented Cuyler from scoring. Maranville then hit to Kelly and a double play broke up the rally.

Grimm brought the Pirate run over in the next inning when he singled, went to third on Smith's one-base drive and scored on Moore's out.

Score:
Pittsburgh ...	000 000 010—1; 8; 1.
New York	000 200 30x—5; 5; 1.

Meadows; Stoner and Smith; McQuillan and Gowdy.

HOME RUNS OFF VANCE GIVE CHICAGO VICTORY

BROOKLYN, Sept. 23.—Dazzy Vance fanned eleven men and held Chicago to four hits today but three of them were home runs and these spelled defeat for Brooklyn five to four in ten inning. Grantham got two of the circuit swats, both over the right field wall after two men were out. The first came in the opening inning with nobody on base. In the third inning, Grantham came up after Vance had walked Adams and Heathcote and repeated his long drive. With the score tied, Hartnett opened the tenth with a liner that bounded into the left field bleachers, scoring the winning run.

The Dodgers bunched two doubles and two singles off Keen in the first inning for three runs, but thereafter kept them away from the plate by brilliant fielding, until the eighth when the score was tied at four all on Johnston's single. Griffith's sacrifice and Stock's hit. Wheat made three doubles, only one of which counted in the scoring. Catches of liners by Grantham and Adams saved Keen at critical times. It was Chicago's first victory of the season over Vance and his sixth defeat. Only two hits were secured off Vance in nine innings. Score:

Chicago ...	103 000 000 1—5; 4; 0.
Brooklyn .	300 000 010 0—4; 10; 2.

Keen and Hartnett; Vance, Ruether and Deberry, Taylor.

ST. LOUIS WINS FROM PHILLIES IN TENTH

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 23.—St. Louis went ten innings today to defeat Philadelphia, 8 to 7. Day, the rookie hurler, pitched seven innings of good ball but was retired in the eighth when the locals tied the score. A double by Wilson, with the bases filled in the ninth again tied the score after the visitors had made three runs in their half inning. Blades' double and a single by Cooney in the tenth gave the Cards the game. Score:

St. Louis ..	003 010 003 1—8; 17; 2.
Philadelphi .	000 001 123 0—7; 15; 1.

WATERBURY BEATS ORIOLES, SCORE 5-1

(By The Associated Press)

WATERBURY, Conn., Sept. 23—Waterbury won the opening of the "little world series" from Baltimore today 5 to 1. Groves, Jack Dunn's pitching ace, was erratic at times, his free passes to first getting him into trouble, while Rush pitched brilliantly for the eastern league champions. Groves fanned nine batters, but passed five, three of whom later scored.

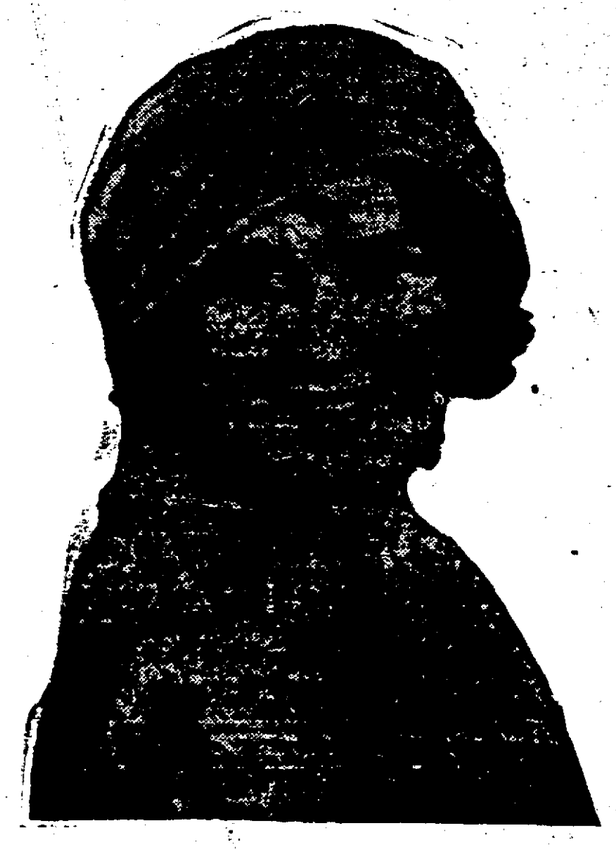
Circus Bride Considers Mail Man Nicest of All



Why is the circus mail carrier the most popular man on the lot—at times? Ask Mabel Ward, a bride, one of the two hundred aerialists with Sells-Floto and Buffalo Bill's Wild West, coming to Danville, Monday, Sept. 29. Mabel, you see, was recently married to a scientist of the U. S. Fish Commission, and he is cruising in tropical waters, while she is making life a little happier and more colorful for all of us with her mid-air grace and daring. But she and hubby have a pact—a letter a day no matter where, so they have a lot to say for the circus mail man, who brings here letters from strange ports almost daily, for now and then a mail boat acts as though it cared little about lonely brides.

Of course, there are 1,350 other people with the show who depend upon the mail man for word from loved ones at home and abroad. Everybody knows that circus people, because of their nomad life, cherish home ties more zealously than do many of us stay-at-homes. The big top is home during the season, but always there is the picture of the family hearth before their minds' eyes at the end of the annual coast-to-coast swing.

Giants Lick Pirates While Dodgers Lose to Chicago

EYES OF BASEBALL CENTER ON POLO GROUNDS TODAY

(By The Associated Press.)

NEW YORK. Sept. 24.— At the Polo Grounds today Pittsburgh will forcefully play for the hand of Miss Pennant, while father Knickerbocker prepares for the ceremony at which the Robins must apparently be content to sing.

The warrior from the west fell from a strategic drawbridge into the moat of a 5 to 1 defeat and will make a left handed attempt to enter the castle on Coogan's Bluff today, led by Emil Yde.

John Laird, of the Clan McGraw, stationed an apparently decrepit Giant at the gate. Terry at first, Lindstrom at third and O'Connell, in center, were raw substitutes and Kelly a stranger at second base. Wilson, a first year man, was in lifet and Gowdy a war veteran, behind the bat. The Pirates charged boldly.

In the second inning Lindstrom cracked a single and O'Connell, a $75,000 beauty, hit what may prove to be a $100,000 home run into the top tier of the stand. In the seventh after Terry and Young were passed, Wilson singled and Gowdy, the old soldier, cleaned up with a double. In the eighth Kelly checked a Pirate rally with two fine plays. McQuillan pitched splendidly while Meadows faltered twice.

As a result of the victory the Giants, who played like champions throughout, lead the Pirates by two and one-half games. Another victory today will all but check the Pirates out of the race. McKechnie's team can still cinch the pennant, however, by winning all of their games.

Brooklyn was virtually eliminated yesterday by the Cubs who qualified as best man for the Giants by trimming Dazzy Vance, 5 to 4 in ten innings although they secured only four hits and Vance fanned eleven batters. Three of the Chicago blows were homers, two by Grantham, one coming with two men on. Three two-base hits by Wheat were not enough. The Robins are a full game behind the Giants with only three left to play.

Washington maintained its two game lead over the Yankees in the American as both clubs won. The Senators were pressed to the limit by the White Sox who drove Mogridge from the box in threatening to overcome an early lead secured from Robertson. Sensational fielding by the leaders, holding with determined grip to their lead, checked the attempt and won, 7 to 6.

The Yankees scored another easy victory over Cleveland, 8 to 2 but must win all of their five remaining games while Washington loses three of its five to win the bunting. The Senators can cinch the flag by taking four or tie by winning three.

Detroit won its fifth straight game, defeating Boston, 3 to 2 and the Athletics sharpened up their bats for the series with the Yankees by beating the Browns 11 to 9.

Cincinnati retained fourth place in the National by defeating Boston 4 to 1 and the Cardinals won a ten inning game from the Phillies 8 to 7.

YANKEES DECLARE PUBLIC HAS PUT JINX ON THEM

By ROBERT T. SMALL
(Copyright, 1924, by The Bee)

NEW YORK, Sept. 24—In striking contrast to the ferment in Washington over the baseball situation, New York remains disdainfully indifferent to the fate of the American League Yankees. No scores are posted here, there are no crowds besieging the newspaper offices, no attempt is made to reproduce the fateful games being played on the road.

Reports from the team in the west say that the players are feeling this indifference to their fate very keenly and are inclined to attribute their cracking under the strain at Detroit to the psychological effect of realizing that they were all alone in the world.

The Yankees have felt, too, that the entire nation was pulling for Washington and Walter Johnson to win. They have felt that the entire nation was giving three rousing cheers every time a Yankee foot slipped. Tradition has had it that baseball players of the professional type are hard-boiled, too hard in fact ever to feel any of the finer emotions of human kind. If this once was true the game has changed. The players do feel the depression of hostility at home, and are inspired by the proper sort of support.

It is the day of the star in baseball and the baseball star is just as temperamental as the stage or operatic luminary. The Yankee stars believe that the public has put a jinx on them. It has been impossible for them not to feel the sentiment which has favored Washington, not alone in the cities where they have played, but from other cities and towns and hamlets where the races in the big league are being followed with the keene stinterest ever shown in a baseball season. The Yankees felt this drift against them in their last series at home with the Washington senators. The Senators won three out of the four games and probably 75 per cent of the customers present were rooting with might and main for Washington. Only a few hundred orphans who had been admitted free to the far field bleachers were really loyal to the Yankees and their entire interest was centered in the doings of their beloved Babe Ruth. As luck would have it the Babe made an awful muff that day of a short fly, but the kids did not waver in their devotion one bit.

The Yankees feel they have had to fight the entire west all along. Their tour started in Boston. There recently have been a sort of entente cordial between New York and Boston American League teams, so the Yankees got away to a flying start with four straights from Beantown. In the west it was different.

One or two of the Yankees, scenting trouble from afar, were quoted as saying that there might be a "shoo in" for Washington by the teams in the west. They have not pursued that talk, for they know now that the Tigers played just as hard against Washington as they did against the New Yorkers and only failed to take three from Washington because of their inability to beat Walter Johnson.

If the Yankees lose, as no wseems all but inevitable, the team always will blame its defeat upon the psychological influence of a hostile feeling at home and throughout the country. Yet the Yankees as a rule have been more popular in recent years here in New York than have the Giants. The truth is that New Yorkers feel themselves it will be the best thing for the game to have the Metropolitan monopoly broken up.

As the Yankees have failed and as sentiment has turned against them, the Giants have staged a come-back in popular affection. They, too, were getting the "razz" for their somewhat sloppy playing a few weeks back. But they have remained gamely in the race. Now they have suffered untold misfortune and with their backs to the wall, the fans are coming to their support in a manner which may portend an unexpected end to the National League race.

For the Game's Sake

By LAWRENCE PERRY

(Copyright, 1924, by The Bee.)

NEW YORK, Sept. 24.—Knute Rockne says the desire of Notre Dame for a victory over Nebraska this season is considerably more than a wish. It amounts to a vast determination.

For two years now the Cornhuskers have been the fly in the South Bend ointment, the flaw in the otherwise perfect amber of Notre Dame football. The Indianians' desire for revenge therefore is warrantable, logical, commendable.

Speaking of Nebraska directs the mind's eye to the Missouri Valley where the Cornhuskers are annually a target for a lot of stalwart teams. The intersectional aspect is quite prominent in the schedule of the Lincoln outfit. Colgate will come bearing a sample of eastern prowess and the Oregon Aggies will come out of the far west.

How long is it since a Pacific coast eleven has penetrated even as far east as Nebraska? So far as the writer recalls it will be the first flight east of the Rockies in a long long time. Notre Dame, Kansas University, Missouri, Kansas Aggies, Oklahoma and Illinois round out a list of rigid tests.

Missouri's new opponents are Chicago and Missouri Wesleyan. They replace Springfield Tech and St. Louis. Iowa State has dropped Simpson and Washington University (St. Louis) to make way for Wisconsin and Nebraska Wesleyan.

Slowly but surely the Haskell Indians are creeping into the place—and a very enviable place it was—once occupied by the Carlisle Indians. As a matter of fact creeping is hardly the word, the aborigines are coming pretty fast. They are a colorful crew, even if they don't wear war paint and are always a popular attraction wherever they play.

The season of the Redskins began last Saturday and closes on November 29. They will journey from the Rocky Mountains to the Atlantic coast to meet the requirements of their schedule. They play Minnesota, Butler at Indianapolis, Boston College and Brown on successive Saturdays in the east; St. Xavier at Cincinnati and in addition tackle Tulsa, Kansas Teachers, Midland, Oklahoma Baptists, Still and Creighton.

Bemoaning the loss through graduation of Kipke, Blott, Uteritz, Muirhead, Vandervoort, Curran, Neisch and Vick from the Michigan eleven, the Michigan alumnus develops this comforting thought: "It is to be remembered that stars are developed during the course of a season and that it is fast getting to be a Michigan tradition that a good man usually turns up to fill a yawning gap in the ranks." Isn't it the truth!

Who will be the man to fill Kipke's shoes? No one, perhaps. KKipke's do not turn up every day. His versatility was his great asset.

After a week's hard work Princeton coaches say that while the Tiger material may not be up to the best of recent years it is certainly superior to the 1923 supply. They have hopes of an eleven approximating the Nassau average.

HARRIS, BUSH DELIVER AS MANAGERS

"DONIE" BUSH AND HARRIS, TWO GIFFITHIAN MANAGERS WHO HAVE SCORED A SIGNAL SUCCESS.

By BILLY EVANS

Baseball is crammed full of uncertainties.

Three years ago Stanley Harris was merely the second baseman of the Washington Nationals, Donie Bush played utility roles for the same team.

Managerial aspirations were far removed from both. Harris yearned for the day when he would supplant Eddie Collins as premier second baseman of the American League. Bush was content to stick around through his ability to fill in at third, short or second.

Clyde Milan, outfielder of the Washington club, managed the team that year. He met with indifferent success and at the close of the season was let out. He had succeeded Geo. McBride, who for years starred at shortstop for the Nationals.

Whom would Owner Clark Griffith appoint to supplant Milan?

During the winter the air was filled with rumors. Griffith admitted dickering with Chicago for Eddie Collins. The White Sox insisted on getting Stanley Harris in the trade so there was nothing doing.

Bush a Surprise

The announcement that "Donie" Bush, just the utility man on the club, would manage Washington for 1923, was the biggest baseball surprise of the year. Bush hadn't been figured in the running.

In all probability Bush had as much success with the Washington club last season as any manager would have had. He finished in the first division, fourth. No one had really expected more of the club.

Then, for reasons that have never been divulged, Bush, who had been figured a success, was released. To succeed him, Griffith named Stanley Harris, his youthful second sacker, still in the twenties.

The appointment of Harris caused as big a sensation as did the selection of Bush. Most of the experts looked for Peckinpaugh to get the job. Some figured the burden of managing the club might ruin the play of one of the game's leading second sackers.

Big things have happened in three years for both Harris and Bush.

Harris' Showing Great

Harris has been a whale of a success at Washington. The great showing of his team stimulated new interest in the American League race.

Bush, deposed at Washington, was made manager of the Indianapolis team of the American Association. It was there that he first gained fame as a player that won for him a chance with the Detroit club, where he starred for years.

Taking a seventh-place club, Bush has been one, two, three since the start of the season and has a great chance to win a pennant with a club that was never considered in the running.

Looks as if Clarke Griffith knew something about the type of player suited for managing, in his selection of Bush and Harris. Both have made good with a vengeance.

FIRST BASE IS IN COMPETENT HANDS

Billy Evans' Dope On Series

Judge, Washington—Bats and throws left handed. A great first baseman. Brilliant fielder. Handling bad throws his specialty. Rated about a .300 batter and dangerous in the pinch. Hits the ball hard, getting many extra-base drives. More than average speed on the bases.

Pipp, New York—Bats and throws left handed. A sterling player whose value is often underestimated, due perhaps to his easy style. Great fielder and timely hitter. Always around the .300 mark. Has been a big cog in the years of success enjoyed by the Yankees.

Grimm, Pittsburgh—Bats and throws left handed. Generally conceded by the experts to be the best first baseman in the National League, if not the majors. Great fielder. Makes hard plays look easy. Hits .300 or better. Big factor in Pittsburgh's success.

Kelly, New York—Bats and throws right handed. Tallest first sacker in captivity. Great target for his infielders. Measures six feet six inches. Despite height, is very fast for a big fellow and a clever fielder. Seemingly no throw is too high for him to handle.

Fournier, Brooklyn—Bats left, throws right handed. Veteran who has seen service in both major leagues. Not a brilliant fielder but very acceptable. Hits ball hard, home runs being his specialty. Bids fair to lead the National League in that feature of play.

Rating—Regardless of who wins in either league, first base will be well taken care of in the world series.

Grimm has the edge in the National. Pipp and Judge are about fifty-fifty in the American. Judge's superior batting probably entitles him to the edge. It's about a tossup between Judge and Grimm for premier honors.

Racing Season In Maryland Begins

(By The Associated Press)

HAVRE DE GRACE, Md., Sept. 24.—The fall racing season on Maryland's mile track opened today with the beginning of a ten day meet here. Three $10,000 races will feature the meet, beginning with the eastern shore handicap, a six furlong event for two year olds today.

The names of twenty two-year-olds many of the season's swiftest youngsters among them, appear on the early list for today's big stake. The track is in splendid shape and fast time is likely.

In all about 800 horses are quartered at Havre de Grace for the meet.

The Deuce and five others are nominated for the fourth event in the 2:15 pace.

The colors of the most prominent stables on the turf will be shown.

TEXAS PANTHERS CLASH WITH TRIBESMEN TODAY

(By The Associated Press)

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Sept. 24.—With sharpened claws and a scream that reverberated through the Dale that is Russwood park, the Texas Panthers invaded the Chickasaw wigwam today and engaged the tribesmen in the initial ontest of the south's baseball classic—the Dixie championship series.

They found the tribesmen wearing their best war paint and a welcoming smile and carrying a tomahawk in each hand. Chief Dobb's war whoop mingled with the scream of the Panther King, Jake Atz, as both chieftains urged their fighters to the fray.

Ideal weather was promised and there was every indication that a record breaking crowd would witness the brilliant battle of bats and balls.

Two left handers were picked last night to command the batteries of the opposing brigades. Cy Warmoth, who has been pitching steady ball throughout the summer, drew the assignment for the Chickasaws, while Joe Pate, who ranks high among the lefthanders of the minors, will do the mound work for Fort Worth. Warmoth has won 21 and lost ten games this season, whereas Pate won thirty and lost eight.

Announces Courses For National Golf Tourneys Next Year

(By The Associated Press)

ARDMORE, Pa., Sept. 24.—The courses for the three national golf tournaments next year were announced today by the United States Golf Association.

The men's amateur will be at the Oakmont Country Club, Oakmont, Pa., the open at the Worcester Country Club, Worcester, Mass., and the women's at the St. Louis Country club. The days will be selected later.

Plans for sending a Walker cup team to Great Britain next have been discussed by U. S. G. A. committees and a decision has been reached but announcement of it is withheld.

The association issued a statement today expressing the opinion that a ball not less than 1.68 inches in diameter nor more than 1.55 ounces in weight will prove a satisfactory standard for all players. The present ball is 1.62-1.62. If the new ball is adopted it must be used in tournaments after January 1, 1926. Further tests will be made, however, and there will be further correspondence with British golf authorities with a view to uniformity. It is understood that at present the Britons are not ready to approve the lighter and larger ball which has been tested in the United States.

The Sportsman

By WALTER CAMP

(Copyright, 1924, by The Bee)

NEW YORK, Sept. 24.— The writer has already warned the Navy team once that they will have to get on their toes rapidly for the Marquette game. But it is worthwhile to drop another hint along the same line, because just as in the earlier days of football Notre Dame when not very well known came east and defeated the Army, just so does Marquette hope to defeat the Navy this year.

It is probable that Marquette could turn such a truck against some of the eastern teams in an early season game, but the Navy is in better physical condition than most of the others and hence will have more stamina in a stiff game.

Still Navy has a lot to do in getting ready for this early October game in the way of developing a backfield, especially if Flippen should not be in good condition, for he and Shapley are the nucleus there. Bob Folwell and Johnnie Welchel are working on this backfield problem and together enough plays to offer an attack to Marquette.

Chick Meehan up at Syracuse has quite a problem before him. In October the Orange eleven is faced with Boston College, Penn State and Pittsburgh in a row. If Syracuse comes through with three victories there, the latter part of the season should be a glorious finish against Colgate, Columbia and even Henderson's Southern California team. But Meehan will have to get a kicker to replace Zimmerman and Jappe and MacRae left holes to be filled.

BROADCAST MOVIES

NEW YORK, Sept. 24.—Radio broadcasting of motion pictures will be possible in the near future, according to E. H. R. Green of South Dartmouth, Mass., who is said to have perfected a device which is successful for short distances. Green will establish a movie broadcasting station when he has completed his experiments.

Spalla Refused to Risk His Title

(By The Associated Press.)

PARIS, Sept. 24.—The international boxing union has ruled that the 20-round bout between Erminio Spalla of Italy and Piet Vanderveer of Holland, in Milan next Sunday shall be for the heavyweight championship of Europe. Boulanger, of Belgium is appointed referee with two judges, one Italian and the other Dutch.

Spalla heretofore had refused to risk his title in this match.

FANS AT TRIAL

CASABLANCA, Morocco, Sept. 24.—A local perfumery establishment capitalized on the widespread interest in a recent murder trial by distributing multicolored fans about the court room, with advertisements of the firm printed on them. The murder case, growing out of a love affair, was followed chiefly by women.

CLOSE RACE RECALLS DAYS OF OTHER FAMOUS FIGHTS

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Sept. 24.—The major league pennant battles now raging rank among the closest ever fought but they have yet to eclipse the record of 1908 when uncertainty over the outcome went down to the final day of the season in both leagues.

Curiously enough, three clubs then, as this year, figured in the final pennant drives.

The New York Giants lost the National League pennant to the Chicago Cubs 16 years ago when the famous "Bone" of Fred Merkle, who failed to touch second in a game between two rivals was a contributing factor which caused a replay at the end of the season which resulted in victory and the pennant for Frnak Chance's club.

It was a three cornered race that year among the Giants, Pirates and Cubs and the Chicago outfit put its two rivals out of the race in the last two games. The Cubs closed the regular season with the Pirates. Victory meant a pennant for Pittsburgh in the final game but Chicago won and clinched its place at the top. The Giants, however, tied it up by winning three straight from Boston, only to have the substitute turn them back in the deciding play-off battle.

Meanwhile three teams also were battling it out in the American League, Detroit, Chicago and Cleveland. The Indians with three games to play, with St. Louis, could clinch the flag by taking them all but they lost one and the decision then rested on the outcome of a game between Detroit and Chicago on the final day of the season. The Tigers, with Bill Donovan pitching, won and gained the right to meet the Cubs in the world's series.

U. S. SENATOR STEPHENS ILL; MAY LOSE FOOT

MEMPHIS, Sept. 23.—Senator Hubert D. Stephens, of Miss.ssippi, was brought to a hospital here early tonight suffering from blood poisoning, which resulted from an injury to his foot several days ago.

Senator Stephens was reported as "resting comfortably" late tonight. Hospital attendants said a more complete examination would be made tomorrow, after which it would be determined whether amputation of the members would be necessary.

Senator Stephen's condition was described at "very serious" by hospital physicians who said that amputation of the infected foot probably would be necessary.

The senator cut his foot with an axe more than a week ago while working on one of his farms near New Albany, Miss. He was chopping a branch from a tree when the axe slipped and split the foot between the great and second toes. The wound, about four inches long, was given immediate attention and for several days appeared to be healing satisfactorily, it was said.

Today, however, the senator's physicians discovered signs of blood poisoning, and the patient was rushed to the hospital here. An examination by hospital surgeons revealed that the poison had spread rapidly and they expressed the opinion that amputation of the member probably would be necessary.

PRESIDENT COOLIDGE IS STILL KEEPING SILENT

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23.—President Coolidge expects to go over plans and check up on the progress of the campaign at a conference here, probably the latter part of the week, with William M. Butler, chairman of the Republican National committee.

Mr. Coolidge has been receiving numerous reports, almost all encouraging, on the trend of the campaign in various sections from visitors he has conferred with during the last two weeks. Largely on the basis of these party leaders here continue very optimistic over the campaign.

While it is the opinion of some that the president may accept an invitation to speak in the middle west before election day, many party spokesmen insist Mr. Coolidge is determined to remain at his desk.

GENARO WINS OVER GRAHAM

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Sept. 23.—Frankie Genaro, American flyweight champion, won the decision over Bushy Graham of Utica in a 12-round bout tonight. The champion, whose title was not at stake, weighed 113 pounds and Graham 117½.

Genaro took seven rounds and scored knockdowns in the fourth, eighth and last rounds. Graham bled freely from the mouth and a cut on the right eye after the 4th round. Genaro was unmarked.

The bout was replet with spasms of furious fighting. The champion forced the battle, using a fast left jab and right cross but found Graham a willing mixer who was always dangerous.

Seventy-fourth Article.
Building and Loan Associations.

In the preceding article in this series some of the general facts pertaining to building and loan associations were stated. Because of the varying laws under which these associations operate in the different states, it is not possible to give details which apply to all of them. It will help, however, toward understanding the methods if the case of one association, operating in New York state, is taken for illustration.

There are two classes of members, those who borrow and those who simply save. It is the funds of the latter which make possible the loans to the former. There are two kinds of shares, one those requiring a specified sum to be paid each month and the other one on which any amount may be deposited at any time. The dividends paid on the first class are 6 per cent. and those on the second class 5 per cent. It is surprising how rapidly money accumulates when dividends are compounded every six months even at only 5 per cent. If $1.00 per month is saved the total in 147 months will amount to $201.58. If the rate is 6 per cent., the gain, of course, if more rapid.

Loans are made to members only and the mortgages are paid off by monthly installments of 1 per cent., covering both interest and reduction of principal and requiring eleven years and seven months to pay off the entire indebtedness. In the case of free shares, that is the shares of members who are not borrowers, withdrawals may be made at any time although if the withdrawals are made before the shares are five years old a portion of the credited dividends is forfeited. This loss may be saved however, if the member wants temporary accommodation only by borrowing from the associat o nputting up his pass-book as security. In this way he may secure up to 90 per cent. of the value of his account. Later when he pays off the loan his interest in the association is unimpaired.

When a member borrows to build a house the association examines and approves the plans and pays the contractor in installments as the building progresses. This particular association helps its members by supplying plans and specif cation for prospective home buildings at a nominal cost. This is very advantageous to those lacking experience or confidence in their own abil ty to select an architect. The fact that the association is willing to make a loan on the proposed building is also an endorsement of the reasonableness of the cost o fthe proposed building. As has been stated d'fferent associations have varying provisions, both as to savings and as to loans.

(Mr. Hughes' seventy-fifth article will appear in The Bee next Saturday.)

NEW YORK COTTON.

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Sept. 24.—The cotton market lost about half a cent of yesterday's excited advance in today's early trading. The opening was easy at a decline of 26 to 31 points. Active months showed net losses of 40 to 50 December declining to 22.78 under realizing and southern hedging.

The disposition to take profits or sell for a reaction was promoted by relatively easy cables, reports of more favorable weather in the south and indications that hedge selling had increased at the higher levels.

Private cables said the early advance in Liverpool had been checked by increased offeri--s of spot.

NEW YORK STOCKS.

(By The Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, Sept. 24.—A strong underlying demand for stocks held prices firm at the opening of today's market. Several large blocks of low priced issues changed hands including 4,000 shares of corn products at 35, up 3-8. Prices changed in other stocks, while mainly higher, were confined to narrow limits with the exception of General baking which mounted a point to a new 1924 high.

The pace of the advance quickened appreciably in the dealings with rails and high grade specialties, leading the upward movement. General Electric, Nash Motors, General Baking, National Lead and Beechnut Packing moved up 2 to 3 points. Union Pacific, Atlantic Coast Line, Lackawanna and other railroad issues responded to the favorable showing of the first batch of August earnings reports. Advances of 1 to 1 1-2 points in these shares also were registered by Coca Cola, Davison Chemical, Western Union, Vivadou and United Railways Investment. Recognized industrial leaders found increasing favor with Mack Trucks touching 101 5-8, American 131, U. S. Steel 109 3-8 and Baldwin 124 3-8, the highest levels on the current move. Foreign exchanges opened firm.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON.

(By The Associated Press)

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 24.—The cotton market experienced an easy opening due to Liverpool showing a loss of about 30 points more than due and to a natural desire to take profits after yesterday's upturn. First trades showed losses of 27 to 33 points and prices eased off some additional after the call until October and December traded 39 to 42 points down from the previous close. The market then rallied slightly and showed a tendency to recover some but near the end of the first half hour of trading prices again sagged. October trading down to 22.37 and December to 22.50.

MORNING STOCK LETTER.

NEW YORK, Sept. 24.—The stock market has had many ups and downs during the past few weeks. None of the moves have been very convincing. The trouble has been too large a percentage of the total was professional. Yesterday it was very encouraging to notice some increase in the public's activity. Unless we put it on the basis that the public is ready to discount the re-election of President Coolidge. Industry does not disclose anything that would be calculated to arouse public enthusiasm. We even find a little price cutting. American Brass Company annonce lower prices on its product. I am a firm believer in the ultimate development of big business and therefore anticipate an ultimately higher level of values but I don't think we have as yet reached that stage where the demand for stocks will be big enough to follow up bulges.

STEAMER SINKS IN COLLISION WITH ANOTHER

Misunderstanding of Signals Results in Crash; None Injured

(By The Associated Press)

BOSTON, Mass., Sept. 24.— The steamer Edward Pierce, a collier plying between Newport News, Va., and Boston, sank in the outer harbor early damaged but the crews of both vessels escaped injury.

According to the harbor police the commission was due to misunderstanding of s gnals. The vessels, both leaving port, were proceeding on parallel courses before the crash. The bow of the Mundelta struck the Edward Pierce abeam and crushed in several plates. A tug took the Pierce in tow but she went down in the channel before reaching the inner harbor. The police boat Watchman stood by the Mundelta, whose bow was shattered.

Capta n Riker of the Pierce and his crew were taken on board the tug before their vessel went down. Captain Jorgensen and his crew remained on board the Mundelta, which had cleared for New York last night.

Mrs. Eleanor Harris Loses Her Fight

NEW YORK, Sept. 24.—Mrs. Eleanor Elaine Harris has lost her fight to compel her one-time husband, Beverly D. Harris, vice-president of the National City Bank, to give her $12,500 with which to reopen the court proceedings which resulted in the annulment of their marriage.

Judge Donohue denied her application on the ground that a review of the previous proceedings did not convince him that an appeal would be successful.

Investigation revealed three kittens, only a few days old housed in the fuselage.

MORNING COTTON LETTER.

NEW YORK, Sept. 24.—Cloth market outlook unsettled and trade yesterday was restricted by the report. The recent rise from the low 21-4 cents may discount a lot for much can still be said for lower prices and delayed frost could easily increase the crop. Until greater activity and expansion is noticeable in the trade market it is hard to believe in any sustained advance. The question of price lies in the demand from spinners. On any buldge would sell the market for a turn.
